WITNESS IN HOLDUP CASE SHOT TO DEATH

William C. Moss, 67, East St. Louis Street Car Motorman, Who Was to Have Testified Next Tuesday, Attacked by Three Hoodlums.

HE DRAWS PISTOL, WOUNDS ONE MAN

Van Buren Dedmon Falls—He Says It Was 'Stickup,' But Police List Him as Associate of Two Against Whom Moss Would Have Appeared.

William C. Moss, 67-year-old street car motorman, was killed at 1:30 o'clock this morning in a pistol fight with three hoodlums who accosted him near his home, 4030 Lincoln avenue, East St. Louis.

The three gangsters were quickly rounded up, one of them having been seriously wounded by Moss. They said they had attempted to hold up the motorman.

The East St. Louis police pointed out, however, that Moss was to have appeared in Circuit Court at Belleville week after next as a State's witness in a robbery case against two alleged associates of the three. They suggested the possibility that the men had stopped Moss in an effort to intimidate him from appearing in court.

The prisoners, all members of a group known to East St. Louis police as the "Washington Park Bunch," are: Van Buren Dedmon, 24 years old, wounded six times by the motorman; Eddie Balling, 24, ex-convict, and John Krul, paroled convict from Leavenworth Penitentiary.

Witness in Robbery Case.
The defendants in the Belleville case, in which the murdered motorman was a witness, are Eugene McDow and Joe Gonzales, charged in an indictment with armed robbery in an $11 holdup of Theodore Heins, East St. Louis street car conductor, on Jan. 19.

Moss, who ran a car on the Washington Park line, East St. Louis, had purchased a revolver recently after he had been held up three times in two months. "They won't rob me again," he had told his wife and children grimly. "I'll shoot 'em."

When the three men halted him at the mouth of an alley this morning, he did shoot first. Dedmon, found wounded near the scene, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where he talked to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Holdup, Says Wounded Man.
"Three of us pulled the stickup," he said weakly. "No, we'd never had him up before. We met him in the alley and told him to throw his hands. He pulled his gun and began shooting right away. He shot me every time."

"I still had my gun in my belt when somebody beside me began shooting at him. Then I pulled my gun and began shooting, too."

"We two hoodlums ran for the car. We had stolen it yesterday after he had been shot. They left the car and I dragged myself up the alley calling for help. I had come as far as I could when the men found me."

Moss Found Unconscious, Dying.
Moss had backed against a tree when the men halted him. Police found him beside it, unconscious, his 38-caliber revolver with six empty shells, still in his right hand. There was one bullet wound in his left leg, two in the abdomen, one in the right shoulder and two near the head.

Admits Another Robbery.
Dedmon was found 100 feet up the alley, prone, with an empty .380 caliber automatic pistol lying just out of reach. Four bullet wounds were in the right thigh and leg, one in the right hip and one in the left hand that penetrated the groin. He admitted that he and his associates had held up a Belleville driver for the Motor Coach Co., two hours earlier, taking about $20, and said that they also had held up two station attendants, a bus driver and a motorman, within the month.

At St. Mary's Hospital Dedmon said police his companions were Eddie and Krul. A search for the two was instituted, but before side officers found Balling, Senior Deputy Sheriff Joseph G. Sander had picked him up and, after questioning him, left him a

TOO MANY REPUBLICANS HOLD FEDERAL JOBS, ROBINSON SAYS

Tells Senate Democrats Should Get Most of Places; Huey Long Agrees.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Discussing patronage, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, told the Senate today:

"I unhesitatingly say that the present administration has kept too many Republicans too long. If I chose to go into details I could name hundreds of old moss-back Republicans placed in office by that great partisan associate of the Senator from Delaware, former Senator Smoot (Rep.) of Utah."

His statement followed comment from Senator Hastings (Rep.) of Delaware, that Speaker Byrnes had informed a caucus of House Democrats that at least 10,000 jobs in the Civilian Conservation Corps would be distributed to "deserving" Democrats. Byrnes later explained he had said only that many positions would be available.

Senator Long of Louisiana said he agreed with Robinson that "Democrats ought to get all the jobs."

WILEY POST FORCED DOWN IN SUB-STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT

Leaking Oil Line Halts Cross-U. S. Attempt 110 Miles From Start at Burbank, Cal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BURBANK, Cal., Feb. 22.—A leaking oil line halted the attempt of Wiley Post to make a stratosphere flight from Los Angeles to New York today. The noted aviator had to land on the smooth bed of Muroc Dry Lake, 110 miles from here. He was brought back to the Burbank airport, whence he had started his flight at 6:07 a. m.

The Winnie Mae, which twice carried him around the world, was not seriously damaged despite the fact the landing was made on skids, his landing gear having been dropped after his takeoff to curtail wind resistance.

Post was uninjured and as soon as the plane can be brought back here, checked over and a new propeller installed, he plans to make the attempt again. This will be within the next few days, he said.

The President's family was said to have been awakened three times in the early morning hours a few days ago by planes flying over the mansion.

MORGAN OFFERS 31 ACRES OF HIS ESTATE FOR SALE

Decides to Dispose of Property After Protest Against Tax Assessment.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—J. P. Morgan, who recently sold six paintings for $1,500,000, has placed on sale 31 acres of his Glen Cove (L. I.) estate. The move apparently is in line with an announced policy of liquidating parts of his estate.

It was disclosed that another of the famous paintings from the collection of the banker's father had been sold by Miss Anne Morgan. The price of the picture, Raeburn's "Portrait of Lady Maitland," was not disclosed.

The price sought by Morgan for part of his Long Island estate was not made public by the real estate firms with which it is listed. About four years ago the 31 acres and the buildings on the land cost $850,000. He bought them from the Perry Chubb estate to extend his holdings on Long Island Sound.

Since 1926 Morgan has been protesting against the tax assessments on his property, which are listed now at $1,324,000. He has won tax refunds of about $72,000.

FILM MAKERS CITED FOR USE OF THE PRESIDENT'S PICTURE

"Misleading and Deceptive," Says Trade Commission, in Ordering Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Federal Trade Commission charged yesterday that a movie, "Forward America," employed a "misleading and deceptive" use of President Roosevelt's picture.

The complaint, issued against Economic Films, Inc., and Frank R. Wilson of New York, said "Forward America" was a five-reel motion picture which sought to contrast independent stores with chains and mail order houses. The use of the President's likeness and oral comment which accompanied the movie, the commission said, might lead to the opinion that he approved the representations in the film or the accompanying statements.

The commission set a hearing for March 29 for the concern to show why a "cease and desist" order should not be issued.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 22.—A northwest gale which reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour shrouded Western Nebraska and Western Kansas yesterday in the worst dust storm in years. Wyoming had dust and some snow.

Sidney, Neb., the first to report the storm, said black clouds dimmed the sun almost at dawn. Vision was limited to a few yards and few persons ventured out of doors.

Scott City, Kan., said dust was turned up to a height of 1 p. m. From Dodge City, Kan., came word that the condition appeared to be general in Western Kansas.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S COMMENT ON HAUPTMANN'S CONVICTION

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 22.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she would not have cared to serve on the jury which convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann of the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

The President's wife came here to address the American Council of Guidance and Personnel Association, and expressed her opinions on the Hauptmann trial in an interview.

"I would not have cared to be on that jury," she said. "While I have no sympathy for Hauptmann, I wonder what would happen to an innocent person under the same circumstances."

YOUNG KENNER CONVICTED, GETS 4 YEARS TO LIFE

Federal Judge's Son Found Guilty of Manslaughter for Killing Friend, John F. Gorrell Jr.

COURT WILL SET EXACT SENTENCE

Defendant Contended He Shot Tulsa Youth to Frustrate Extortion Plot Against Girl.

By the Associated Press.
PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 22.—Phil Kenner, convicted of first degree manslaughter in the killing of his friend, John F. Gorrell Jr., must wait until tomorrow afternoon to learn his sentence—a term which may range from four years to life in the State penitentiary. Defense attorneys said a motion for a new trial would be filed at that time.

The verdict against the 19-year-old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kenner was returned last night, seven hours and 15 minutes after the jury of farmers and small town business men had taken the case. Before that jury he had told of Gorrell's death last Thanksgiving night at Tulsa. He said he shot Gorrell, 23, son of a prominent Tulsa physician, in self-defense while seeking to frustrate an alleged extortion plot against the family of the girl he loved.

Jacob Clark, the foreman, said the jury had considered only a manslaughter verdict, although the State had demanded Kenner's life in the electric chair. Twelve ballots were required. On the first, three voted for acquittal and nine for conviction. "We had quite a time getting together," Clark said.

Before the jury reported, the defendant joked and laughed with his jail mates, several of whom previously have served sentences imposed by his father.

"I don't know you think that damn jury will deliberate?" he asked a visitor.

Waiting in the courtroom before the verdict was read, Kenner sat and glared at W. F. (Dixie) Gilmer, an assistant prosecutor who earlier in the day had shouted "killer, kidnaper, Kenner—there he is," pointing to the defendant.

Kenner accepted the verdict without a show of emotion. He leaned over to pat the shoulder of his father who sat slumped in the next chair.

"Good bless the jury," commented Gilmer.

J. Holly Anderson, Prosecutor of Tulsa County from where the trial was brought on, said he was "satisfied" and "intimated" he would demand a long prison term for Kenner.

Miss Virginia Wilcox, 19-year-old daughter of the Kansas plot said she was trying to protect when he shot Gorrell, was not in the courtroom, although she had attended nearly all the sessions of the trial and had appeared as a defense witness.

Dr. J. F. Gorrell, father of the dead student, was in the courtroom for the verdict, apparently recovered from a nervous outbreak he suffered earlier in the day, when he threw himself across a bed at his hotel and wept uncontrollably for his son.

"I'm very happy over the outcome," he said. "Turning to the prosecution staff, he added: 'I appreciate what you gentlemen have done.'"

Previously Dr. Gorrell and his wife issued a statement in which they expressed a wish only "to be left alone," with the tragedy "sealed within their hearts." "We trust no Tulsa father or mother shall ever be called upon to sustain the sacrifice we have made."

Youth Gave Up After Killing.
Gorrell was found dead, with two bullet holes in his head, in an exclusive Tulsa residential section. Two days later Kenner surrendered, saying he had shot in self-defense to prevent Gorrell from carrying out an alleged $20,000 kidnapping plot against the family of H. F. Wilcox, millionaire and industrialist.

Some of the daughters of socially prominent Tulsa families were called to testify both for and against Kenner. The State introduced witnesses who said they heard Kenner threaten to kill Gorrell. Prosecutors declared that Kenner had shot Gorrell because the latter refused to help him carry out the alleged plot.

Defense attorneys contended Kenner shot in self-defense and while temporarily insane. Kenner, described by his attorneys, as both "mad and insane," took the stand himself to tell of the shooting. Gorrell, he said, snapped the pistol in his face and in a struggle the weapon was discharged.

WORK-RELIEF BILL SENT BACK TO COMMITTEE IN SENATE TO BE REVISED

After Suffering Defeat on This Provision, Glass Advocates Step to Prevent Veto.

TWO DIVISIONS TO BE SEPARATED

$880,000,000 Emergency Aid Part to Be Reported for Quick Action as Single Measure.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—On motion of administration leaders, the Senate today returned the $1,880,000,000 relief bill to its appropriations committee.

Action was taken on the motion of Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, who explained the $880,000,000 direct relief measure would be returned in separate bill.

This would leave in committee the controversial $4,000,000,000 work-relief program to which the Senate yesterday attached, 44 to 43, a prevailing wage requirement opposed by President Roosevelt.

The action today was taken without a record vote.

Relief Bill Put First.
After reporting a separate $880,000,000 bill, administration forces hope to work out a way to block ultimate approval by Congress of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment so vigorously opposed by President Roosevelt.

Administration must be aware of danger in further delay in appropriating for the needy and it was the intention to separate the bill so the $880,000,000 could be acted on first.

Chairman Glass of the Appropriations Committee told the Senate the bill was "in such condition that it will inevitably meet a presidential veto" and said it was "extremely desirable that it go back to the committee."

McNary Questions Purpose.
Senator McNary, the Republican leader, expressed a desire to cooperate if the committee acted quickly to "relieve distress" and meeting the present situation, but he questioned the purpose behind the move. He said it was quite evident the administration forces wanted time to block the prevailing wage amendment.

Previously, Speaker Byrnes of the House gave it as his personal opinion that the House would defeat the McCarran amendment.

Work Program Dead.
Senator Byrnes (Dem.) of South Carolina, who took a leading part in fighting opposition amendments in committee and who kept in close contact with the White House meanwhile, told interviewers after the Senate quit for the day: "The President will veto the bill with the prevailing wage amendment in it, but the Senate insisted on putting it in. The work program is dead."

Other Senators believed the committee either would report out the $880,000,000 bill next week to carry forward direct relief and develop something later on the works phase, or recommend $1,880,000,000 to continue the present set-up for a year.

Promises to Revise Bill.
Glass said that his committee would "go over its provisions again and report out a bill that would not be quite so controversial."

Robinson, in support of his motion, said: "There is a situation in which all Senators are familiar, relating to funds for destitution and relief. Manifestly before any final agreement can be reached on the bill, there might be a very distressing condition brought about."

Second White House Rebuff.
The vote yesterday was the second major rebuff suffered by President Roosevelt at the hands of the Senate this session. The first was his defeat on the "World Court" Senator Huey P. Long, the fast-thinking political dictator of Louisiana, was responsible for out-manoeuvring administration forces yesterday. He prevented a tie vote, and thus a rejection of the McCarran amendment, by adroitly "pairing" Mrs. Hattie Caraway against a favorable vote for the amendment. Long and his sound trucks were powerful factors.

BABE RUTH'S JAPANESE SPONSOR IS STABBED

Editor Unpatriotic for Letting So Much Money Leave Country—Assailant Says.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Feb. 22.—Matsutaro Shoriki, distinguished Tokio publisher, was stabbed and seriously wounded today by a man who charged Shoriki was not patriotic because he sponsored Babe Ruth's tour of Japan last fall, causing money to leave the country in time of depression.

Physicians resorted to a blood transfusion in an attempt to save Shoriki. He is publisher of the Yomiuri Shimbun, third largest newspaper in Tokio.

The assailant, Katsuke Nagasaki, 28 years old, surrendered at a police station shortly after escaping from the scene of the attack.

He told police he attempted to take the publisher's life because Shoriki was unpatriotic on several instances, including the Ruth tour and because of his alleged connection with political scandals.

Nagasaki has a police record covering three years for several previous assaults and acts of violence, allegedly from patriotic motives. He is a member of the obscure Nationalist group "Bushin-Kai," or "Warlike Gods' Society."

He attacked Shoriki inside of the newspaper's building, driving the dagger into his neck.

Shoriki was the second outstanding publisher in Japan to become an assassin's target within a year. Sanji Muto, head of the newspaper Jiji Shimpo here, was murdered March 9, 1934, by an unemployed salesman.

Babe Ruth received a tumultuous welcome in Japan, where baseball's popularity has grown by leaps and bounds and where Ruth is a hero no less than in America. At times he was almost mobbed as fans attempted to touch him. Four games in Tokio drew 200,000 persons. Connie Mack, veteran Philadelphia Athletics manager, and several American League stars made the tour.

Ruth returned home Wednesday after a visit in Europe.

STATE TO OPPOSE DELAY IN TRIAL OF BART DAVIT

Case to Be Called Monday and Prosecutor Will Insist That No Continuance Be Granted.

VERNE LACY SAYS
HE HAS BEEN ILL

Does Not Feel Able to Stand Strain of Trial at This Time, He Tells Reporters.

With the trial of Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench in the Dr. I. D. Kelley kidnapping case postponed until April 15, the State will make every effort to take Bart Davit to trial when the case is called Monday at Clayton, Associate Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe said today.

Verne R. C. Lacy, chief of counsel for Davit, as well as for Mrs. Muench, has told reporters that he has been ill and does not feel able to stand the strain of a trial at this time. Prosecutor Wolfe said today, however, that the State would oppose any defense move for a continuance of the trial, on that or any other ground.

Mrs. Muench, whom the State originally planned to try beginning Monday, obtained her continuance yesterday through the efforts of a defendant's lawyer. The State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City.

Under Section 938, Revised Statutes of Missouri, a continuance is seemingly mandatory upon the court where a defendant pleads for an affidavit setting out that his lawyer is busy in duties as a member of the General Assembly and that his attendance in court is necessary to a fair and impartial trial.

Remarks by Judge. In overruling the State's arguments against Mrs. Muench's continuance motion, and resetting the trial for April 15, Circuit Judge Scott remarked:

"Nothing in this matter, it appears, is left to the discretion of the court. The facts, and the good character of the applicants may be taken into consideration. This case of the Legislature has curtailed the power of the court. The application will be granted."

Walter Wehrle, one of 11 lawyers who have represented Mrs. Muench in defense against the charge of kidnapping Dr. Kelley for ransom, formally entered Representative Keating's name last Tuesday, and filed the motion for a continuance.

Wolfe, in oral and written arguments, attacked the motion as made out of time and in bad faith, pointing out that Keating had never before appeared for Mrs. Muench in any matter pertaining to the case. Wehrle pleaded that the continuance was mandatory under the law declared Keating had been in case in an advisory capacity from the beginning, and asserted he wrote a brief for Mrs. Muench in a habeas corpus proceeding last summer.

In two Kansas City cases. Keating's name was entered twice in the past four years in Kansas City as an attorney of record in murder cases, and his presence among counsel was then made the basis of successful applications for continuances.

Davit, now held in jail with bond, was docketed for trial with Mrs. Muench, who is at liberty on $25,000 bond, until the case of yesterday moved her case to April 15. Both had taken severance entitling them to separate trials.

It taken to trial Monday, he will become the third of four defendants in custody in the case to face Judge Scott. Angelo Rosegrant was convicted last Oct. 4 by a jury which fixed his punishment at 20 years in prison, and is now at liberty on appeal bond. Kansas City Police Sergeant Announces Two Confessed Hiring Kidnapers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 22.—A woman dressed as a man wielded the baseball bat with which Ray Marshall, alleged narcotics informer, was fatally beaten when he resisted kidnapping here recently, Sgt. Frank Howland of the police homicide squad announced today.

Howland said Hollis D. Coon, 32 years old, and his wife, Gladys Coon, 32, had confessed they hired two men to kidnap Marshall. All four are in jail and police are searching for Mrs. Claire Fishbaugh, 28-year-old brunette who is accused of administering the fatal beating to Marshall.

SANITY TEST FOR MAN SENTENCED TO HANG

Governor Orders Inquiry in Case of Paul Barbata Who Killed Three.

Dr. George A. Johns, superintendent of St. Louis Training School for the Feeble-minded, has been directed by Gov. Park to inquire into the sanity of Paul Barbata, under sentence to be hanged next Friday at the City Jail.

Friends and neighbors of Barbata, convicted of the murder of 18-year-old Lillian Salomoni, recently called on the Governor to urge commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment, on the ground that Barbata was insane.

After their visit the Governor stayed the execution of the 34-year-old former pugilist which the State Supreme Court had set for Feb. 15 when it upheld his conviction last month.

Barbata shot and killed Lillian Salomoni, her brother, Joe, and her father, Sam Salomoni, on Jan. 6, 1933, at the Salomoni home, 2317 Cooper street. The murders occurred shortly after the girl's parents had told him to keep away from their daughter because he was married. Admitting the killings, Barbata offered an insanity defense at his trial.

DIONNES SEEK TO REGAIN CONTROL OF QUINTUPLETS

Said to Have Hired Lawyer: Also Want Part of Money in Babies' Trust Fund.

By the Associated Press. WINDSOR, Ontario, Feb. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne have retained Paul Martin, a Windsor lawyer, it was learned today, in an effort to gain full parental control of their quintuplet children.

The Dionnes, who are seeking to obtain a share of the money advanced from testimonials and photographs sold to a newspaper syndicate.

Martin, it is understood, will confer with Premier Mitchell Hepburn next Thursday. He will seek the Ontario Government's permission to use some of the money held in trust for the quintuplets for the support of the five other Dionne children.

The money, which is expected to total $100,000 by the time the babies are a year old, is to be held as a trust fund until they reach the age of 18.

The parents charge they are treated brutally when they visit the hospital at Callander to see their children. They say they were compelled to sign away their rights of parental control, favor of the five guardians appointed by the Government on the threat they would be refused relief and it was for this reason they were forced to go on the stage to earn the money to support their other five children.

FREED FROM SOLITARY CELLS AFTER 9 YEARS

Two Nebraska Convicts Serving Life for Killing Guard Hear Radio First Time.

By the Associated Press. LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 22.—Two convicts who served nine years and four months in solitary confinement at the State penitentiary here for participating in the attempted break in 1926, when two men were killed, were released from solitude Wednesday. They are Joe Dunn and Ray Smith.

Smiles of happiness were on their faces as they walked unescorted out of the prison jail on their way to the office of Warden N. T. Harmon. They appeared pale and weak.

Freeing the men from the jail was Harmon's first act after he became warden. "I feel the men had had enough," he said. "They promised to behave and obey prison rules. We can't ask more. I did it so that I could sleep nights. I couldn't go to bed at night knowing those two men were in those solitary cells."

Both men heard radio programs for the first time and are looking forward to hearing their first talking picture at a prison movie show. Killed Guard in 1926.

Three men, led by Fred Brown, attempted the break Sept. 28, 1926. A guard was killed when Brown and Smith opened fire. A prison guard was shot and killed. Brown and the attempted escape failed.

Warden W. T. Fenton put the two prisoners "in solitary" with the statement that they would not come out during his administration.

The men were given life terms. Smith was serving 10 years for a highway robbery and Dunn, already under life sentence for killing an Omaha policeman. As a result of the wound, Smith's right arm was amputated.

Fenton retired as warden last year because of ill health.

How They Spent Time. While in solitary, Dunn and Smith tried to "keep up" by reading magazines and occasional newspapers, brought by a chaplain at their request. The first three years were spent in downstairs cells, which were so dark that they had to stand with their backs to the door to see to read. Upstairs the last six years they have had more light, but still the cell ventilation was through the door.

Once a week the two convicts walked 20 steps down a corridor for a bath. Until last July they received only the plainest of prison food. Since then they have had a little tobacco. Every Sept. 28 they were denied all food but a crust of bread, to remind them of their attempt to escape.

Their cell furnishings consisted of a cot built into the wall, with blankets but no mattress; a stool and a water basin with hot and cold water.

DENIES PAYING $25,000 FOR CHICAGO MURDER

Defendant on Stand—Says He Made No Deal With Man Accusing Him.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Irving Weitzman, wealthy bakery chain owner, on trial accused of paying $25,000 for the murder of Eli Daiches, advertising man, took the witness stand today and denied he was implicated in the killing.

Daiches was assassinated in his limousine on the Outer Drive. It is charged he was killed in a plot to get his $317,000 in insurance.

"Did you ever receive any money from your brother, Louis Weitzman, to pay Jack London or Walter Murphy for the alleged homicide of Eli Daiches?" he was asked.

"No," said Weitzman, in Judge Harry B. Miller's criminal court. Before a crowded courtroom, Weitzman admitted knowing both London and Murphy. Murphy had testified that Weitzman hired him to kill Daiches, head of an advertising agency, owned principally by Weitzman's brother, Louis, of New York. Murphy said he hired a man, now dead, to do the actual killing.

The insurance policies, which, according to State testimony, had large premiums falling due just after Daiches' death, March 3, were payable to the firm.

Murphy and London asked him in 1933 to back them in opening a gambling house, Weitzman said. He said that was his only connection with them.

It was true, he said, that he sold Daiches the car in which Daiches was killed, but he denied supplying the chauffeur who was driving Daiches that morning.

Murphy's testimony that he and Arthur Embien, held for the killing, trailed Daiches to Florida in the winter of 1933 brought a statement from Weitzman that he commonly spent his winters in Florida, but never met his accusers there or wired them expense money for their murder expedition.

His first testimony was an indirect attack on the character of Daiches.

prisoner in the County jail at Belleville.

The East St. Louis officers hurried to St. Louis police headquarters, accompanied by five detectives, surrounded a rooming house at 4156 Westminster place, where Baling and Krul had been living.

They burst open the door and Krul, who was with his wife, Ethel, and another young woman, attempted to dive through a window. Sgt. Morrison fired a shot and he surrendered. In their rooms two revolvers were found. Krul and the women were taken to East St. Louis, where the paroled convict made a written statement admitting he was present at the holdup.

"We knew that the old man would pass this alley on his way home from work," he wrote. "We had held him up before, twice. So we parked our stolen car in the alley and I stayed in the car. I heard some shooting and got out and just then Eddie came running up and said: 'I think Buren is shot.'"

"We jumped in the car and drove around the block a few times looking for Buren. We couldn't find him, so we separated. I drove to where I had parked my car in the 600 block of Ohio avenue and left the stolen car there and drove to the rooming house where we had been staying."

Moss had been held up a month before at the same alley mouth, by robbers who took $7. It was a week following that holdup that he purchased the revolver.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lillian Moss, four sons and two daughters.

Krul admitted to police that he had participated in 15 holdups on the East Side in the last two months. He and Dedmon are under indictment at Belleville, charged with a series of burglaries and robberies. When arrested by East St. Louis police Dec. 13, Dedmon confessed to three burglaries and Krul to 10. The indictments were based upon their confessions and they were at liberty under bond, awaiting trial.

MOVE TO SHIFT SALES TAX TO CONSUMER

Senators Donnelly and Clark for 2 Pct. Levy With Provision Against Merchants Absorbing It.

FIND NO OTHER WAY TO FINANCE RELIEF

Nothing in Missouri Constitution to Prevent Change in Proposal, They Say After Inquiry.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—The movement for the imposition of a 2 per cent sales tax to be passed on to the consumer was given strong impetus last night by Senator Donnelly of Lebanon, president pro tem, and Senator Clark of Richmond.

Expressing the opinion that the emergency relief situation in Missouri could be met in no other way, the two influential Senators said they were convinced there was nothing in the Missouri constitution, which would prevent the State from requiring merchants to pass the tax on to the consumer, and nothing to prevent prohibiting a merchant from absorbing the tax.

In announcing the decision they had reached after a study of court decisions, the Senators said it was their intention to wait until the House had acted on a sales tax bill, which is now being drawn by a sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee. When a bill passes the House and reaches the Senate, the Senators intend to place their ideas before the Senate Ways and Means Committee, with the suggestion that it prepare a substitute bill for the House bill if the latter does not meet the situation.

$5,000,000 for Schools.
With the school fund deducted, the Senators estimated, there would remain more than $12,000,000 of which $5,000,000 would go for relief, $3,000,000 to pay old age pensions, and $4,000,000 to relieve counties of the burden of two-thirds of their expense in maintaining patients at State hospitals.

The announcement of the view of the Senators followed a conference to which they were summoned yesterday by Gov. Park, who expressed alarm over the situation which he told them he believed would develop in Missouri after March 1 when, officials of the FERA have announced, Federal allotments to Missouri will end unless the State has provided $1,000,000 a month for relief, one-half from the State and one-half from the counties and cities.

While it will be impossible to enact necessary legislation by that time, the Senators have in mind, if the proposal for a 2 per cent tax grows in favor, to attempt to bring about adoption of a resolution pledging the Legislature to provide the money demanded by the Federal officials. They believe this sort of a guarantee would satisfy FERA and that Federal allotments would continue to come to Missouri.

"We can see no other way than a 2 per cent tax," Senator Donnelly said, speaking for himself and for Senator Clark. "We have examined decisions of the courts and believe the law sanctions a requirement that the tax be passed on to the consumer."

"We recognize the fact that a year ago when the sales tax bill was up the Attorney-General gave an opinion holding this could not be done, and we intend to confer with him about it though we did not have the opportunity today. We believe we have found decisions which will have weight with him."

"These decisions hold that the power to tax, to determine the source of taxation and the methods of tax collection are inherent in the Legislature, and that there is no limitation on this legislative power unless such a limitation is in either the Federal or State Constitution. There is no such limitation in either Constitution."

"While increased taxation of any sort is abhorrent to us, we must face the emergency which exists. We know of no other way to meet it."

Advantage to Retailers.
The Senator pointed out that with a 2 per cent tax passed on to the consumer, the merchant would be relieved of the present one-half of 1 per cent tax which in most instances now is absorbed.

While there is no intention in their plans to abolish the present State tax on property, the Senators said that property owners would be relieved materially from such taxation by an expected reduction in school taxes, and by the payment from the sales tax revenue of a large part of the cost counties now have in supporting insane patients in the hospitals.

They said that while they did not believe old age pensions should be on a temporary basis, such as this proposed bill contemplates, the tax would provide for the pensions until the next Legislature could handle that subject on a permanent plan. It is proposed to limit the tax to the years 1935 and 1936.

The present one-half of 1 per cent tax produces approximately $4,500,000 a year. It will expire at the end of this year.

JOE FORSHAW RESISTS SUIT OF FIVE SISTERS

Acts as Own Attorney in Effort to Block Appointment of Receiver.

Joe Forshaw, former Olympic marathon runner, spent yesterday in Circuit Judge Baron's court as lawyer and witness opposing the efforts of his five sisters to have a receiver appointed for the family stove parts business, "Forshaw of St. Louis."

"A receivership would put a blight on the name of Forshaw," the 54-year-old former athlete told the court. "Our company has operated at a continuous profit since it began business on Twelfth street in 1885. There are no outstanding bills, no creditors. There is no reason to appoint a receiver, and, if it is done, then no business is solvent."

Last Dividend in 1930.

Called to the witness stand by Stephen C. Rogers, attorney for the sisters, Forshaw admitted the company paid its last dividend in 1930, explaining that recent profits had been used to improve the firm's new location at 110 South Twelfth boulevard. He said the estate received $211,000 from the city under Plaza condemnation proceedings for its former business building at 109-11 North Twelfth boulevard and he had distributed $189,000 among the heirs, collecting, in addition to his share, a 5-per cent fee to which he was entitled as trustee.

Regarding the distribution of $25,000 in bonds, which his sisters are demanding under an accounting, the head of "Forshaw of St. Louis" said it was the wish of their father, the late Joseph Forshaw Sr., that that amount be maintained as a business reserve.

When Rogers asked a question about the father's will, Forshaw left the witness stand to offer an objection and then strode back to the witness chair to be questioned.

Judge Baron asked Forshaw to maintain the role of witness, pointing out that W. D. Chapman, an attorney for the Forshaw estate, was present to look after his interests.

Forshaw testified that his father dictated the will, "and I took his instructions." The elder Forshaw died in 1925, leaving an estate valued at $139,000.

Questioned About Letter.

Rogers questioned the witness about a letter he wrote one of his sisters in 1933, offering to buy her share of the business for $7000, and asked whether Forshaw had "painted a gloomy picture." The witness replied that he had endeavored to "give both sides of the picture." He wrote his sister, he testified, that the stove industry generally had declined the last 20 years, due to modern heating methods, but that sales of "Forshaw of St. Louis" had increased in 1932.

Forshaw met a former marathon training mate in the courtroom, Thomas J. McCarthy, official court reporter. McCarthy was forced to work at top speed to keep up with the rapid testimony of his former running mate. Due to the legal holiday today, the hearing, on an order to show cause why a temporary receiver should not be appointed, will be resumed tomorrow.

The plaintiffs, who were set in court, are Mrs. Jane F. Marsh, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Rosenthal, Mrs. Adelaide F. McMullen, Mrs. Anne F. Bucklew and Miss Lucille Forshaw.

Forshaw was a member of three United States Olympic teams, finished ninth over the original marathon course in Greece, third in England and twelfth at Stockholm in 1912, his last Olympic race. He was also a speed skater, bicyclist and swimmer.

at Beach Party.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—The marital tangle between the two prominent principals in Los Angeles' marital tangle went into a weekend retirement today, with one of them in bed suffering from shock and a nervous breakdown. The hearing of the case, involving the private affairs of two Beverly Hills pairs—Walter Emerson, former actor and writer; his wife, Mrs. Emerson; and Barton Sewell, Beverly Hills sportsman, and his wife, Leah Clappitt Sewell, will be resumed in Judge Ben Lindsey's court Monday.

The first angle of the case, its legal ramifications as complicated as the domestic lives of the Emersons and Sewells, was completed yesterday. It concerned Emerson's suit for divorce against his wife, with accompanying charges of infidelity between his wife and his former friend, Sewell.

Mrs. Emerson did not appear in court yesterday. Her attorney said her ordeal of testifying the day before, when she started listeners with frank admissions of her love for Sewell, had brought on severe shock and nervousness.

Mrs. Sewell testified yesterday that she and Emerson shared one room while her husband and Mrs. Emerson slept in an adjoining one during a party at a beach cottage several months ago.

Mrs. Emerson had declared her husband knew of her relations with Sewell and agreed to the arrangement.

Two of Emerson's witnesses, however, Virgil C. Crites, an electrical engineer, and Mack Wise, San Francisco shoe merchant, declared Emerson was shocked and upset when he burst into a bedroom door of his home and found Sewell and

Mrs. Emerson. They accompanied Emerson on the "surprise visit." "You dirty dog, I thought I could take you at your word," they said Emerson told Sewell. Previously testimony in connection with this incident said Sewell said to Emerson: "I thought we had an understanding about this."

Other phases in the case yet to be aired in the courtroom are Mrs. Emerson's cross bill against her husband, in which she charges extreme indiscretion between Emerson and Mrs. Sewell, and Mrs. Sewell's $100,000 alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Emerson.

AUTO MANUFACTURERS DENOUNCE NRA REPORT

"Scraps of Information." They Say of Survey on Labor Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Feb. 22.—The Automobile Manufacturers' Association issued a sharp criticism last night of the Government's survey of labor conditions in the automobile field, charging that the industry had been indicted on carelessly gathered "scraps of information."

The criticism was contained in a complaint sent to S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, by Pike Johnson, vice-president of the Manufacturers' Association.

Johnson's statement charged that the NRA Research Committee headed by Leon Henderson had been "deceived" by the "recklessly false statements" of the American Federation of Labor during its study last November of seasonal fluctuations in automobile factory employment.

"It is a source of amazement to this industry," said Johnson, "that when there are such acute economic problems pressing for solution, the existing difficulties should be multiplied and the minds of the public and the employees of the industry confused by an investigation, the intended purpose of which must have been the clarification of problems."

"The investigators doubtless were deceived," said Johnson, "that when there are such acute economic problems pressing for solution, the existing difficulties should be multiplied and the minds of the public and the employees of the industry confused by an investigation, the intended purpose of which must have been the clarification of problems."

Organizer Says Federation is Ready for Strike Action.

By the Associated Press.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 22.—Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer, said here last night that after a year and a half of "mobilizing an army" the Federation was ready for strike action in the automobile labor field.

Speaking at a mass meeting of automobile workers, Dillon said the National Council of the Federation would consider the question of a strike vote at a meeting in Detroit tomorrow.

"Unless Alfred P. Sloan and the automobile industry come to a realization of their duties as citizens and employers I shall advise the calling of a strike vote at the National Council meeting," said Dillon.

MORE EXEMPTIONS BY HOUSE GROUP ON JOB INSURANCE

Committee Eliminates From 3 Pct. Tax Churches, Schools and Hospitals
Not Operating for Profit.

MODEL STATE BILLS DRAFTED

One Covers a Pooled Fund
Plan and the Other a System for Plant Accounts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to exempt all churches, schools, hospitals and colleges not operating for a profit from the proposed 3 per cent unemployment insurance tax on payrolls.

That change was written into the pending social security bill as an elaboration of the amendments approved yesterday exempting farmers, domestics and employers with fewer than 10 employees.

The committee voted to exempt from the taxes by which the fund for paying insurance would be maintained employers of farm and domestic help, employers of less than 10, and all non-profit or charitable institutions. Originally the plan would have covered employers of four or more persons in all classifications. No estimate of the number of persons affected by the committee change was available.

The Model State Bills. While the Ways and Means Committee was reshaping the social security bill, copies of the drafts of model state bills that have been prepared by administration experts became available for the first time. Two model state unemployment insurance bills, one covering a pool fund system and the other a plant account system, have been prepared. Suggestions for a state old-age assistance law also have been drawn up. These are ready to be put before the state legislatures by the state directors of the Emergency Council as soon as the administration is certain of the form the national unemployment insurance and old-age pension laws will take.

The bills were drawn, Dr. Edwin E. Witte, director of the President's Economic Security Committee, said, to meet all requirements of the Federal measure.

Under the pooled fund plan, all contributions would be paid into a single, undivided fund with no segregation of the amounts paid in by each employer. Benefits would be paid from the pooled fund to eligible employees. Provision might be made for varying employer contribution rates.

Under the plant reserves plan, the total contributions paid by the State fund would be pooled but the major part of each employer's contributions would be segregated within the fund and benefits paid from an employer's account only to his own eligible employees.

The pooled fund plan calls for a 3 per cent payroll tax to be levied

HURT IN CHEMICAL EXPLOSION

Laboratory Man Shoveling Inflammable Material.
By the Associated Press.
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Feb. 22.—Robert B. Hufnagle, 22 years old, is in a serious condition today from burns received as he was caught in the midst of exploding chemicals in the Thermoplastic Laboratories. Hufnagle retained consciousness long enough after the blast and fire yesterday to tell authorities that highly inflammable material exploded as he was shoveling it.

Engulfed in flames, his clothing virtually was burned from his body as he ran to the street.

HEARINGS CONTINUE ON INSURANCE CODE

They Are Not Expected to Be Wound Up Before Next Thursday.

By a Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 22.—Senate Committee action on the proposed revised insurance code, it appeared today, will not be reached for at least two, and possibly, three weeks. If the bill is finally passed it cannot be made before April 1.

The Committee on Insurance, which had expected to close public hearings yesterday, found many interests remaining to be heard, and at the conclusion of the hearings of these objections Powell McManey, counsel of the Insurance Department, will present the department's reply to the points raised. It is now expected that all public hearings will end next Thursday, after which the committee will consider about 100 amendments which have been placed before it and will decide in what form, if any, the bill will be returned to the Senate. This procedure may take as much as two weeks.

Same Procedure in House. There is no certain now that the bill will receive a favorable report in any form from the committee, and if it does it must meet attacks from the floor of the Senate, and if finally passes there the whole procedure passes the gate through again in the House.

At the hearing yesterday afternoon, R. Emmet O'Malley, Superintendent of Insurance, gave his explanation of the reason the department eliminated from the bill tax-exchanges at the instance of Charles M. Howell, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and active in Pennington organization politics in Kansas City. Admitting the code originally was written to tax the reciprocal, even to the extent, O'Malley thought, of imposing the two per cent premium tax, the Superintendent said that "a gentleman from Kansas City" had objected and that the department believed his objections well founded. It then rewrote the taxation section of the bill to impose only a $20 annual fee on reciprocal exchanges.

Penalizing Home Industry. "The reason," he said, "was that a very large part of the reciprocal insurance business of the United States is done by Missouri companies. If we impose the two per cent premium tax on reciprocal or other states, those states will impose the same tax on Missouri reciprocals under the retaliatory law common to all states. As most of the reciprocals are Missouri companies, this would mean that we would be penalizing home industry, penalizing Missouri companies."

Then, too, those companies are in competition with the stock fire insurance companies, with which the State has been in long rate litigation. In this connection we believed we should do anything we could to promote the business of Missouri companies."

The Superintendent made no reference to the change in the code leaving the reciprocals of property taxes and fees of agents who were on salary.

CITY PWA PROPOSALS TOTAL $150,198,000

Improvement of Northern and Southern River Fronts Added to Approved List.

Improvement of the northern river front, for a seven-mile extent from Bissell's Point to Chain of Rocks, and of the southern river front from Bellevue Park to Marine Hospital, is included in the additional list of suggested city projects, to be submitted to the Public Works Administration. With these and other additions, approved yesterday by the City Plan Commission, the city anticipates making an entire list of suggestions now totals $150,198,000.
The list has been prepared because the PWA authorities requested the city officials, and those of other cities and of the states, to submit such lists. The PWA is figuring on possible expenditure of the $400,000,000 now being sought as a public works appropriation. It is not considered likely that any city or state will get all, or the greater part, of its request, but there has been a general response to the request for lists of projects.
New York City sent in a list amounting to $1,141,000,000, and the State of Oklahoma has asked for $500,000,000.
President Brown of the Board of Public Service explained to the City Plan Commission yesterday that he had been obliged to send in the first list without getting the Commission's approval, because of the short time allowed. The Commission went over the previous list, amounting to more than $120,000, 000, and approved it, though some details were questioned by various members.
The original St. Louis list of suggested works included a Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, plan for beautifying and utilizing the downtown river front, with an estimated cost of $30,000,000. To this have been added the northern river front plan, with an estimated cost of $22,650,000, and the southern river front plan, $6,498,000. Both plans being on the larger scale, the northern plan would include in-clamation of a large tract of land to prove ground for the airport and for a park with an area of nearly five square miles. A scenic drive and a yacht harbor would be included. The new lake, north of Alton dam, is expected to give a great impetus to boating and water sports in the entire St. Louis region.
Municipal Gas Plant
Other supplemental suggested projects, approved by the City Commission, were new traffic signals, $200,000, a new lion and tiger house for the Zoo, $165,000, and a smoke abatement survey, $150,000.
The original list began with a suggested expenditure of $35,000,000 on a municipal gas plant and central heating plants, for the purpose of smoke abatement.
Items in the previous list which were discussed by the Commission way along Broadway, and the proposed underpass for traffic separation at Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard. Prof. A. S. Langsdorf questioned whether the double-decking of Broadway would fit in with the city's other improvement plans, and feared it would decrease downtown property values. Park Commissioner W. A. Miller doubted the advisability of the underpass at the main entrance of Forest Park, from a scenic point of view. It was decided to let the items remain in the list, and to discuss objections later if PWA officials should show an interest in them.
Puffs Cigar in Electric Chair

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Feb. 22.—Willey Graves, 29-year-old Negro, went to the electric chair early today for ington March 1. Graves walked to 600,000 LOTTERY TICKETS ARE SEIZED

Found in Shipment of Rags on Ship Arriving From France.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—
Buried in a cargo of rags, 50,000 books of sweepstakes tickets with a sale value of $1,500,000, were seized by U. S. Customs Inspectors yesterday aboard a ship recently arrived from France. There were 12 tickets to a book, making a total of 600,000.
The customs inspectors, examining the vessel's cargo in routine manner, chanced to open several of the bales of rags, consigned to Trenton, N. J., and discovered the tickets. 12 to a book—in several of the bales. The tickets were on the forthcoming French Grand National Sweepstakes.
S. J. Montgomery, inspector in charge of the local customs bureau, said the shipment was addressed to a man known as Samuel Barrow.
U. S. Commissioner William S.
Wacker issued a warrant for his arrest.
Montgomery said that for some time Federal authorities had known that the supply of the tickets for foreign sweepstakes must be in either the Philadelphia or New York area, because most of the winners in this country live in the vicinity of those two cities.
For months customs men have kept a close watch on all ships entering New York harbor, but despite their efforts lottery tickets have continued to get into the country.
A few weeks ago, Montgomery added, the base of operations was shifted from New York, and an intense investigation was carried on here, resulting by chance in yesterday's discovery.
Complete details of the seizure were not made known but it was learned that a detail of inspectors were sent out in the hope of rounding up the reputed distribution
"ring" before word of the seizure spread.

MAKES DEFENSE WEEK SPEECH

Lee Meriwether in Radio Plea for Preparedness.

Maintenance of an Army and Navy strong enough to deter any foreign nation from encroaching on American rights was urged by Lee Meriwether, lawyer and war-time special envoy of the State Department to France, in an address yesterday over Station KSD, in connection with the National Defense Week program of the St. Louis chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association.
Facilitators say that preparedness does not prevent war," said Meriwether. "It is not an absolute guarantee against war, but it is the best mankind has ever devised.
America neither needs nor wants armaments for aggression. But armaments needs and must have ar-round world know it will not pay to attack us."

U. S. SECURITIES ACT DIFFERS FROM BRITISH

Limited Identification of Interests in Corporations in American Law.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—An interesting feature of the new Securities Exchange Act is its limited provision for identification of influential interests in corporations the securities of which are required to be registered.

In this respect the Securities Act differs from the British Companies Act, which also has a provision for the identification of shareholders. Since the recent failure of some large commodity firms in London, the British act has been criticized as not going far enough; it has been said that some powerful political figures had been able to hide their substantial interest in the failure of which caused heavy losses to investors.

Under the Securities Exchange Act every director or officer of a corporation the securities of which are registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission must file a statement of his stock holdings, and must report changes in such holdings. Every stockholder who is directly or indirectly the beneficial owner of 10 per cent or more of any class of a company's stock must report his holdings, and also changes.

The stocks to which these provisions apply are those which are traded in through registered national securities exchanges, and all exchanges which do a regular business of trading in securities are required to be registered. Whether the provisions of the act will be fully effective in disclosing financial interests remains to be seen. Of course, the great number of stockholders whose holdings are less than 10 per cent of a total issue are not required to file reports.

The British Companies Act requires every incorporated company to keep a register of its members (shareholders) with the number of shares owned by each, and this register must be open to inspection by any shareholders without charge, and to any other persons on payment of a fee of not less than one shilling.

A provision for the issuance of share warrants, however, modifies the effectiveness of the act. A warrant may be issued to any member for his shares, and when so issued the member's name is removed from the register. When the holder of a warrant surrenders it for cancellation, his name is entered in the members' register.

A complaint in connection with the recent London failures was that a bank held thousands of shares of one of the companies for "nominees" whose names need not be registered.

This has led to demands in Parliament and elsewhere for more complete registration of names of shareholders.

What is this red sauce that gleams invitingly on well-laid tables all around the globe? How comes such universal favor? What magic in its character makes food lovers in millions reach for it eagerly and pour? What is this thing?

Well, it is tomatoes, luscious, perfect tomatoes, grown from specially pedigreed seeds. And hard-to-get spices, of keen flavors, brought by special buyers from the Orient. It is slow-simmered down to the blessed essential goodness. It is sealed in bottles, and sent forth to clamoring grocers.

PASSENGER TRAIN HITS EMPTY AUTO, IS DERAILED

Front Truck of Alton Locomotive and Four Coaches Leave the Track.

The front truck of the locomotive and four coaches of the Alton Railroad train No. 6 from St. Louis to Chicago were derailed at Hartford, Ill., at 1:44 a. m. today when the locomotive hit an empty automobile, stalled on a grade crossing. No one was injured.

The driver of the automobile, Smith LaMar of Wood River, and his wife had just left the crossing to telephone a garage for a tow car. Their machine, a Ford V-8 sedan, was dragged several hundred yards and badly damaged. Rails were spread and planks on the crossing torn up after the front truck of the locomotive jumped the track, causing the four coaches to leave the rails. The last two coaches were not derailed. The train was stopped within a quarter of a mile.

After a delay of about 40 minutes, passengers were taken on to Chicago by Alton train No. 8. Hartford, in Madison County near Wood River, is about 15 miles north of St. Louis.

BAR EXAMINATIONS IN CITY

To Be Held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The February examination of law students seeking admission to the bar will be held by the State Board of Law Examiners next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the St. Louis University School of Law, Grand and Lindell boulevards.

WHY FORMER MRS. ASTOR AND HUSBAND LIVE APART

Boxer Said to Fear Legal Difficulties If They Remain Together in Rome.

ROME, Feb. 22.—Italian legal complications were troubling Enzo Fiermonte and his wife, the former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick today.

It was learned that because of his passport difficulties the former boxer is not living at the hotel where his second wife and her secretary, Mrs. Grace Strong of New York, are staying. His brother-in-law said it was inadvisable for Fiermonte and his wife to remain together in Rome until the passport has been returned. It was taken from him when he arrived at Genoa from the United States, presumably to hold Fiermonte in the country for possible army service in the Ethiopian dispute.

"When the passport is returned, the brother-in-law said, 'he and his wife will leave Italy by airplane. He and his wife came to Italy to see about his child by his first wife, but so many complications have arisen they are eager to get out.'"

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 22.—Suit for $25,000 for "organizing an employees' union to be subservient to the wishes of the company officials" was filed in District Court yesterday by William Sheets against the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway Co.

For forming the Employees' Protective Association to oppose the A. F. of L. local then being organized, Sheets, who figured in a subsequent strike, avers the company agreed to retain him for life at $5 a day but later turned him out. On his life expectancy of 29 years, he bases his claim for $25,000.

SECOND CHICAGO BANK CLERK TELLS OF PLOT TO DEFRAUD

Witness Says He Too Was Approached But Turned Down Barry-Karatz Proposal.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—A second youthful bank clerk took the witness stand today in the grand larceny trial of Dave Barry, boxing referee, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, and charged that the defendants had attempted to use him as a tool in obtaining money from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank.

Like Otto Van Derck, who admitted covering up overdrafts on the account of Barry's enterprises, 22-year-old Arthur Fortier said he had been approached but did not succumb to talk of big names and big money.

Fortier, who said his salary at the bank was $65 a month, told how he had added to his income last summer by "shilling" for a Barry concession at the World's Fair.

Karatz, he said, had asked him how he would like a $5000 a year job as assistant treasurer of the Abraham Life Insurance Co., of Springfield, Ill. It was this company, the State charges, that the conspirators planned to take over with money fraudulently obtained from the bank.

Later, he testified, Karatz attempted to obtain his assistance in putting through a $25,000 check on a man named W. W. Ehlers. Fortier said he refused to have any part in the transaction.

TUGWELL WON'T RESIGN FOR PRESENT, HE SAYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Weary of disagreements with more conservative officials in the Agriculture Adjustment Administration, Rexford Guy Tugwell visited the White House late yesterday. Heinz makes delicious soups hard to make at home

CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP takes skill and care in the making. Mushrooms must be carefully selected, picked over one by one, washed very clean, then chopped fine. Seasonings must be the finest and carefully measured. Cream must be sweet and rich, and the soup must be cooked watchfully at right heat and to the very minute. All these things Heinz does, and so Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup is a rare and excellent treat—a perfect "party" soup. It is a whole soup, all there, and because the mushrooms are brewed right into the cream the superb flavor permeates every spoonful . . . Serve Heinz Cream of Mushroom Soup today

NOODLE SOUP WITH CHICKEN takes hours to make. The broth must be slowly simmered down till it is rich and redolent with flavor. Tender chicken, chopped in dainty bits, must be used generously. And fine, thin-cut noodles, cooked until delicately tender. This is the way good home-cooks make noodle soup—and the way Heinz makes it. Heinz Noodle Soup with chicken comes to you all ready to serve, ready to awaken the family's appetites, delight them and leave them comforted and satisfied . . . MEDICAL SOCIETY APPROVES

VENEREAL DISEASE CLINICS

Suggests Private Treatment for Indigents Not Wishing to Go to Centers.

The St. Louis Medical Society has adopted a resolution approving recommendations of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association for treatment at public clinics of venereal diseases among indigents and making a suggestion for private treatment of patients not wishing to go to clinics.

The resolution urged the Social Hygiene Association to include in its plans practical recommendations for means of enabling indigent patients to choose between treatments at public clinics and treatments by private physicians with the same laboratory and hospital services when necessary.

ALLEGED EXTORTIONIST SEIZED

Federal Agents Say Man Held at Decatur Confessed.

By the Associated Press.
DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 22.—Oliver Walters, 49 years old, was seized last night by Federal agents who said he attempted to extort $600 from Mrs. Helen Tedrick under threats of kidnapping her 4-year-old son.

Mrs. Tedrick received an extortion letter Wednesday night, commanding her to leave $600 at a designated place. Her attorney notified police and three Federal agents were sent here from St. Louis. Following instructions contained in the letter, Mrs. Tedrick placed a "dummy" package in an alley. Federal agents said they seized Walters as he picked it up. Police said that he confessed writing the extortion note.

WRECK OF MACON LAID BY BOARD TO DEFECT IN DESIGN

Judge Advocate Finds That Sharp Gust of Wind Strained 'Structurally Weak Frame.'

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Commander T. L. Gatch, Judge Advocate of a naval board of inquiry, said yesterday a sharp gust of wind, straining a "structurally weak frame," sent the dirigible Macon into the Pacific with a loss of two lives Feb. 12.

"The loss," Gatch added, "we can only conclude from evidence the court has gathered, should be charged to profit and loss and, if we build another airship, we now can build a lot better."

He said the court could fix no responsibility for the crash. The Judge Advocate, summarizing testimony taken before the board, declared there was a "defect in design in that forward part of the upper fin which was not sufficiently secured against lateral pressure."

The court's findings will be submitted to Admiral J. M. Reeves, Commander-in-Chief of the battle force. A preponderance of testimony, Gatch declared, led to the conclusion a sharp gust of wind struck the top fin. "The pressure on the forward part of the fin," he said, "was transmitted to the four holding-down bolts at its base on frame 17 1/2 (the frame where the forward parts of the four fins were reeved). To that frame was directed the pressure from its outer rings and from there through diagonal girders to the inner ring, thereby causing a strain to be thrown on frame 17 1/2 which possibly failed. One or more of the diagonal girders gave way. These undoubtedly punctured one or both of the gas cells in the tail, leaving it unsupported and causing the ship to drop into the ocean."

During the flight of the Macon last April to Florida, two girders on frame 17 1/2 were sheared off in a storm over Texas. The Bureau of Aeronautics ordered the frame strengthened, but this work had not been completed when the Macon went down.

NEGRO COMMUNIST LEADER FINED $50 FOR DISTURBANCE

Sam Dukes' Original $300 Fine and Workhouse Sentence for Part in Demonstration Reduced.

Sam Dukes, Negro Communist leader, was fined $50 by a jury in Judge Griffin's division of the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday for his part in a "relief demonstration" at City Hall Nov. 30, last, which was adjourned by policemen swinging hickory clubs.

In fining Dukes the jury reduced an original penalty of a fine of $500 and a sentence of six months in the Workhouse imposed by Police Judge Finnegan Dec. 7 for general peace disturbance.

A jury two days ago took similar action in the case of John St. Clair, another Negro Communist. Seven other cases of Communists who have appealed from Police Court decisions are scheduled to be heard.

DRILL BY DEAF PUPILS IN SPEECH, LIP READING

Demonstration of Practical Value of Training Presented at Central Institute Meeting.

In a demonstration of the work of pupils of Central Institute for the Deaf at the annual business meeting of the institute last night, emphasis was placed on the practical value of training the deaf in correct speech and in lip reading. Teachers, directing pupils of varying ages, showed how the children were learning to talk intelligibly in spite of their inability to hear the sounds made by themselves or others.

John E. Baker, 17 years old, who is leading the junior class at Soldan High School, delivered with only minor distortion of word sounds an original address on conditions in China. He was born there and became deaf at the age of 5. Three years ago he came to Central Institute.

"China, to the foreigner who hasn't lived there," he began, "is a country of bandits, throat-cutting and pagodas." Then he proceeded to give a different idea of the country.

Younger Pupils Demonstrate.

A younger boy demonstrated how he was progressing towards normal speech, although he had been kept in a Southern school for the feeble minded for five years in the mistaken belief his trouble was in the brain, not the ears. A smiling blonde girl of 3 or 4, with green dress and green hair ribbon, pronounced letters and diphthongs written on a blackboard. Sometimes her answers were inaudible, but the assembly could tell by the shaping of her lips that she was correct.

Youngsters in costumes recited Mother Goose rhymes. It was not possible to understand clearly all that some of them said, but it was striking to observe, in view of their handicap, that they could do so well. One result of their training was shown in the emphasis they gave at the right places to syllables they could not hear. When about 20 older boys and girls recited the familiar poem, "The Arrow," they did it with excellent rhythm and union.

One older pupil was on the program, a young woman from Dallas, Tex., who became quite hard of hearing two and a half years ago and has studied lip reading at the institute about 18 months. She understood without difficulty the sentences formed silently on the lips of a teacher 20 feet away and with little trouble the questions of a man 60 feet away in the audience, whose upper lip was somewhat obscured by a mustache.

Dr. Goldstein's Report.

Dr. Max A. Goldstein, director of the institute, presented his annual report, telling of financial rearrangements necessary because of the impending termination of a five-year grant from the General Education Board, and describing plans for extension of facilities in connection with a shifting of property lines for the new express highway. The school is at 818 South Kingshighway. An election of trustees was held.

FEWER FATALITIES IN STATES REQUIRING DRIVERS' TESTS

Secretary of National Conference on Safety Says Reduction in 8 Years Is 25 Pct.

States which have drivers' license laws requiring examination of drivers have experienced a reduction of 25 per cent in automobile fatalities in the last eight years, while in states without license laws such fatalities have increased 14 per cent, according to A. W. Koehler, secretary of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

Koehler, at a recent conference with the legislative committee of the St. Louis Safety Council, said that states which have drivers' license laws, but without the examination feature, have shown an increase of 7 per cent in automobile fatalities.

After his meeting in St. Louis, Koehler went to Jefferson City to appear before committees of the Legislature which are considering two drivers' license laws for Missouri, one with and one without the examination feature.

QUESTIONED ABOUT THREE MURDERS

LOYD DOWELL, THIRTY-ONE-OLD FARMER, was ordered held for questioning by Sheriff T. S. Fisher of Hot Spring County, Ark., after Walter Ray, 28; Mrs. Ray, 24, and their 18-month-old son were found dead of bullet wounds in a lonely mountain creek three weeks after their disappearance from Malvern, Ark. Neighbors said the Rays had figured in a neighborhood quarrel over ownership of hogs, and that an effort had been made to force them to leave the vicinity.

20 STRIKING TEACHERS UNDER ARREST IN CUBA

Government Leaders and Educators Confer but Reach No Settlement.

HAVANA, Feb. 22.—Twenty teachers in Havana province were under arrest today as the Government intervened in Cuba's school strike. After an all-night conference between Government leaders and educators, settlement appeared no nearer.

While the conferees were meeting, strikers were busy "stimulating" the movement for the ouster of the Government of President Carlos Mendiat. Teachers and students of Santa Clara Province voted last night to join the movement. Santa Clara is the last of Cuba's six provinces to participate.

Prof. Felix Hurtado of Havana University, speaking for the strikers, said: "The military power has taken unlimited preponderance and the actions of the provincial government are the causes provoking the students' rebellion, which is justified."

The faculty of Havana University adopted a resolution criticizing the Government for its "failure to establish social and political peace in the place of anarchy and disorder." Although they voted to support the students and teachers in their demands, they considered it best not to interrupt the work of the university.

It was believed the faculty added the clause for continuance of school sessions for fear of playing into the hands of the Government, which would like to see the university closed temporarily.

WOMAN DENOUNCES 'MUNITIONS RACKET'

Miss Dorothy Detzer Says Signs Indicate Nation Is Preparing for War.

Miss Dorothy Detzer, outstanding woman peace lobbyist who was instrumental in causing the Senate's investigation of munitions, observed yesterday that the power of public opinion, properly presented, constitutes still the nation's most potent force.

Miss Detzer, who for 10 years has maintained offices in Washington, as executive secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, exemplified her activities in crystallizing public opinion last night in an address at St. John's Methodist Church.

Not only did she assail the "munitions racket," vividly emphasizing points developed during the investigation, but she urged the practical necessity of public opposition to the proposed big Navy budget.

The requested naval supply budget alone is $581,000,000, almost double last year's appropriation, she said, while the price of a single cruiser would maintain a cancer institute 100 years. The Children's Bureau had a hard time getting $350,000, Miss Detzer said, but more than twice that amount was expended for bedding national guard horses.

A total 1935 Army and Navy budget of nearly $1,000,000,000 she described as a "war budget" designed to safeguard the market in China for American products.

Suave, well-groomed, intensely practical, Miss Detzer occupies a unique position in Washington, keeps in close contact with the individual activities of each member of the House and Senate. An expert in promoting effective propaganda against war she conducted an intensive conference with members of the St. Louis Council of Organizations Promoting Peace prior to the public meeting conducted under auspices of the council.

Nation Preparing for War.

Before the conference, Miss Detzer said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that all present signs indicate this country is preparing for war. Observing that a big Army budget had already been approved she turned her guns on the Navy.

"We are not planning to build 86 naval ships for scenery," Miss Detzer declared, "but for use. The only use of such a fleet would be in war. Maneuvers and other naval dispositions point to preparations which indicate war may occur despite the fact that the mass of people are peace-loving."

Miss Detzer said that the policy of this nation is composed of three groups, the financial interests which include armament makers, the press and the general power of public opinion.

Just now, she is going in the highways and byways, lecturing in towns and cities, to promote public protest against preparation for war. She regards her tour as much a part of her work as the personal contacts she maintains in Washington. She is supplied with data to support her arguments.

Power of Public Opinion.

"Despite the strength of entrenched interests," Miss Detzer said, "public opinion, as expressed by the messages and resolutions of common citizens all over the country, church and welfare organizations, schools and clubs may influence our legislators."

Miss Detzer said that in her 10 years as a peace lobbyist she had never seen legislators turn their votes as they did on the World Court question. Defeat of the World Court proposal she ascribed to the activities of William Randolph Hearst, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and Senator Huey Long in arousing public opinion. Senators who had announced the favored the Court were deluged with telegrams, messages, resolutions, telephone calls, visits, she said.

"That's what public opinion can do," she exclaimed, "and if public opinion can defeat a measure of that sort it ought to be strong enough not only to defeat big navy bills but to insure legislation which will promote peace instead of war."

LIQUOR REVENUE FALLS OFF

January Total $26,000,000 Against $38,000,000 in July.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—January liquor revenue fell off sharply, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today. The total collection was $26,000,000, as compared with $38,000,000 in July, the record high for the year. Beer and ale taxes in January were $11,879,865 compared with $23,316,018 in July while the tax on distilled spirits was $11,523,406 against the high peak in December of $16,527,852. Liquor taxes have been falling considerably below the estimate.

All internal revenue for the seven months ending Jan. 31 amounted to $1,731,844,578, an increase of $333,694,103 as compared with the like period in the year before. TRADE COMMISSION REPORT ON SILK, RAYON PROFITS

It Says Some Plants Could Have Cut Hours or Increased Wages.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Reporting on earnings in the silk and rayon industry in 1933 and the first eight months of 1934, the Trade Commission said today that some plants at times during the period had profit margins out of which hours could have been decreased or wages increased but that others did not.

The report covered part four of the investigation which President Roosevelt last September ordered the commission to make into the financial position of the textile industry. A report regarding the cotton, spinning and weaving branch of the industry is yet to be finished.

The commission reported that 43 companies which weave their own silk and rayon could have cut working hours up to 22½ per cent or increased wages up to 29.03 per cent during the second half of 1933 without suffering any loss on sales.

"Other things being equal," a maximum increase of 8.30 per cent in selling prices would have been sufficient to support a decrease of 25 per cent in hours or an increase of 33.33 per cent in wages and leave the weaving companies in no worse condition than they actually reported for any period," the report added regarding these 43 companies.

WISCONSIN COLLEGE INQUIRY

Legislative Committee to Check Up On Radical Beliefs.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 22.—An inquiry to determine if radical-minded students and instructors populate the campuses of the University of Wisconsin and the nine State teachers' colleges, was in prospect today.

The Wisconsin State Senate authorized the investigation yesterday, but left to its Committee on Education the arrangements for the inquiry, which was designed, Senator E. F. Brunette of Green Bay said, to clear the air of charges which "never have been proved or disproved." A group of five Senators will be named by the Committee on Committees to conduct the investigation. They will question students and instructors to learn their personal beliefs and teachings.

STRIKE IN COLLEGE ENDS

Students Out for Week to Enforce Administrative Changes.

By the Associated Press.
FRANKLIN, Ind., Feb. 22.—After being admonished by E. L. Bran-gin, a trustee, Franklin College students yesterday ended the strike they began a week ago to enforce demands for administrative changes.

Most of the 250 students went on strike following a mass meeting at which they drafted resolutions calling for the resignation of President Spencer, the establishment of a student social center, additional scholarships to attract athletes, and abolition of compulsory chapel or improvement of chapel programs.

DU QUOIN BANK RECEIVERSHIP

Action Against First National by Comptroller of Currency.

By the Associated Press.
DU QUOIN, Ill., Feb. 22.—The Du Quoin First National Bank was placed in receivership today by order of the Comptroller of Currency.
Harry Miller, president announced "eventually every depositor will get every cent due."

Plans are now under way to organize a new First National Bank and $50,000 in preferred stock has already been sold into the new organization, it was announced.

Sugar Plant Closes.

CROCKETT, Cal., Feb. 22.—Approximately 1500 workers were thrown out of work here today when the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining Corporation plant shut down because of what officials described as "labor trouble."
Officials said the trouble started when union organizers requested and were refused the privilege of organizing employees on company time. Representatives of organized labor, however, said the difficulty began when 15 employees were released, allegedly because they had joined the union.

OIL CONTROL MEASURE

GOES TO WHITE HOUSE

Bill Bars Interstate Transportation of Illegally Produced Product.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The House completed congressional action today on a bill designed to stop the flow of illegal oil in interstate commerce. The measure now goes to the White House.

The bill designed to replace a control section in the Industrial Recovery Act which was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.
Before the House acted the Senate had approved the conference report on the bill. The House previously had set the limit of the control measure as of June, 1936, and the conference extended it to June, 1937.

The bill would prohibit movement in interstate commerce of oil produced in violation of state production control laws.

The conference report more nearly conforms with the House bill than with the Senate measure drawn up by Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas.
In one section it declares interstate transportation of "hot oil" is prohibited; in another it provides that the President may lift such prohibition if he finds that the supply of crude moving across State lines is so great as to cause a disparity with demand.

RUMORS OF ROYAL ENGAGEMENT PERSIST

Names of Princess Ingrid and Prince Frederik Linked Despite Denials.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 22.—New rumors and new denials that Princess Ingrid of Sweden is to be the bride of Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark have served to convince Scandinavia as a whole that there is fire under all the smoke.

No royal engagement, real or anticipated, has been more talked of here in recent years, despite the fact that denials have been positive and complete.

Both Swedes and Danes, it has become obvious, would welcome the match, not only for its political significance in the closer relationship of Nordic royalty, but because of the popularity of the young persons it would involve.

Denmark, with a bachelor crown prince who soon will be 36 years old, is getting as nervous about his avoidance of matrimony as are the Brits about the Prince of Wales. Sweden, with an attractive 25-year-old princess, is convinced that the time for wedding has arrived.

Latest False Announcement.
The latest flurry was caused by a flat announcement in the usually responsible Copenhagen newspaper, Berlingske Tidende, that the engagement was to be announced on the arrival home of Princess Ingrid from a lengthy tour of the Far East.

In the face of vigorous denials the Berlingske Tidende was forced to back down on its announcement, but not without leaving the impression that the editors had been more premature than inexact.

The rumors were at a high point last summer when Princess Ingrid paid several visits to the Danish royal family at Copenhagen. At Cannes Prince Frederik dined publicly with King Gustaf of Sweden and Princess Ingrid, and later rode a part of the way to Paris in King Gustaf's private car.

The Danish Crown Prince is said to be a great favorite of King Gustaf and Princess Ingrid is likewise much in the company of her royal grandfather.

Houses Already Linked.
Since Princess Martha of Sweden is already married to Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, it is pointed out, the marriage of Ingrid and Frederik would be a most important step in the further unification of Scandinavian royal family.

In past years the name of Princess Ingrid frequently was linked with those of both the Prince of Wales and Prince George of England. The latter was definitely regarded as a suitor after the two British brothers visited Stockholm in 1932.

WOMAN DEPOSITOR TESTIFIES AGAINST HENRY GIESSENBIER

Tells of Giving Bank Cashier Note Signed in Blank When She Went to Europe.

Miss Harriet L. Gibson, another of the depositors of the closed Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank from whose accounts the Government alleges Henry Giessebnier misappropriated $19,700, was a witness against him yesterday at the ninth day of the former bank cashier's trial, before a jury in Federal Judge Davis' court.

At the close of yesterday's session the trial was adjourned until Monday because of the holiday today and other business which will occupy Judge Davis tomorrow.

Miss Gibson's testimony followed that of her sister, Miss Maude O. Gibson, and her brother-in-law, Ernest Boyd, both of whom have testified concerning Giessebnier's handling of the family's financial affairs.

She told of giving Giessebnier a note signed in blank when she left for Europe in May, 1929, and of directing him to sell 100 shares of Burroughs Adding Machine Co. stock for her, and reinvest the money. The following January, she said, Giessebnier reported that he had invested the money in stocks and that the account showed a profit of $2000.

RECTOR TO ASK GOV. HORNER TO SAVE WOMAN FROM CHAIR
Other Steps Being Taken for Mrs. Puhse and for T. J. Lehn, Convicted With Her.

Legal and humanitarian pleas will be made in the endeavor to prevent the electrocution of Mrs. Gertrude Puhse and Thomas J. Lehn of Granite City, now scheduled to take place April 19 at Chester Penitentiary. The Illinois Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the conviction and death sentences of the pair, for the murder of the woman's husband, Charles Puhse, 13 months ago.

The first legal step will be a plea for a rehearing before the Supreme Court. If this is denied, Harry Faulkner, attorney for Lehn, is considering a plea for an examination of Lehn as to his sanity. H. J. Bandy is Mrs. Puhse's attorney. The Rev. R. A. Martin, rector of the Episcopal Church in Edwardsville, plans to appeal to Gov. Horner in behalf of the convicted woman, for a commutation of her sentence to life imprisonment in the women's penitentiary at Dwight. She is now at Chester, a man's institution, because there is no electric chair at the Dwight prison. The minister expects Bishop John C. White of Springfield to join in his plea.

Daughter and Five Sons Get Property of Restaurant Man.

The estate of Hugo G. Goerner, for more than 30 years one of the proprietors of Speck's Confectionery, was valued at $71,155 in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday. DOLLARS STRONG

LONDON MARKET

Crosses Old Parity to the Pound Sterling in Moderately Active Trade.

The Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 22.—The United States dollar celebrated Washington's birthday today by moving beyond its old parity, gaining 1 1/2 cents to the pound, and closing at 4.85 3/16 to the pound, compared with yesterday's close of 4.83 3/16. The opening was 4.86 1/2.

The improvement was due mainly to the removal of uncertainty regarding the new clause in American bonds and to the United States favorable trade balance with a consequent pressure against the British pound.

There was no evidence of official intervention and the rate closed at the best of the day.

The French franc closed at 73.50 as compared to yesterday's price of 73.75 to the pound.

PARIS, Feb. 22.—The United States dollar gained 1 1/2 cents today, closing at 151.75 francs (64.14 cents to the franc), as compared with yesterday's close of 150.75 francs (63.75 cents). The opening was at 151.11 francs (63.75 cents).

HEARING ON ANGLE PARKING ON DELMAR AND DE BALIVIERE

35 Merchants Favor It; Traffic Officials and Street Car Company Opposed.

Thirty-five merchants appeared before the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday to urge that angle parking of automobiles be legalized on Delmar boulevard between Clara avenue and Skinker boulevard, and that it be continued on De Baliviere avenue between Delmar boulevard and the Wabash tracks.

Delmar boulevard merchants said that since angle parking was abolished last March their business has fallen off, due to curtailment of parking facilities. They urged passage of a pending bill to repeal the ordinance, which became effective in March, and De Baliviere avenue merchants urged the defeat of a pending bill to abolish angle parking, now legal on that street.

Representatives of the city traffic department and the Public Service Co. urged that angle parking be prohibited on both streets, declaring that accidents on Delmar boulevard have shown a marked decrease since motorists have been required to park parallel to the curb, and that traffic now moves more freely on the street. The committee took the bills under advisement.

Clarence G. Baxter, an attorney with offices in the Clayton National Bank Building, died last night at St. John's Hospital of complications resulting from appendicitis. He was 56 years old and lived at 3528 Pine Grove avenue, Pine Lawn.

Mr. Baxter, born in Owensville, Mo., was educated at the Missouri School of Mines and at the Kansas City College of Law. He served as Prosecuting Attorney of Gasconade County for four years before moving to St. Louis County about 15 years ago. He was a law partner of former State Senator Richard F. Ralph from 1921 to 1928.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bessie Baxter, and two sons. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Saturday at the Bopp Chapel, 12 North Hanley road, Clayton. Burial will be in Owensville.

'BIG SPENDER' ARRESTED, CONFESSES $1000 BURGLARY

Negro Held by St. Louis Police for Authorities at Jackson, Miss.

Investigating a report that a "big spender" was registered at a hotel at Jefferson avenue and Pine street, Negro detectives yesterday arrested a 23-year-old Negro, who had been entertaining two men and another man, and reported he confessed stealing $1000 from a residence in Jackson, Miss., a week ago.

The prisoner had $752, which he said was the rest of the loot. He said he was detected during the burglary and escaped under shotgun fire from the owner of the house. He was held for Mississippi authorities.

Bank Robbers Get $4000.

FULTON, S. D., Feb. 22.—Three robbers held four persons prisoner for an hour until a time clock opened the vault, took $4000 from the Fulton State Bank yesterday and then forced the four to accompany them for six miles in their flight. The hostages were released unharmed.

SUBSTITUTE PLAN FOR REICH INDICATED

From Air Alliance.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 22.—Great Britain opened negotiations directly with Russia, Germany and Italy today to determine the next step to be taken for the general settlement of the issues of European security and armaments.

It was understood that Great Britain and France had agreed on what course to pursue in view of the recent notes from Germany and Russia. In these notes, Germany said it needed aviation protection from Russian power, and Russia insisted that Germany should agree to the proposed Eastern European security pact in its entirety. The negotiations with Berlin and Moscow are expected to decide the agenda of talks between those governments and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, should he go to those capitals.

It was understood in Government circles that Great Britain expects Germany will sign military guarantees with its Eastern neighbors—this act to serve as a substitute for the Franco-Russian plan for an Eastern pact on which Russia insists. Meanwhile, Germany would be barred from the proposed air pact until the issues of security and armaments are settled.

RUSSIA FOR INCLUDING PRIVATE MAKERS IN ARMS CONVENTION.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Feb. 22.—The Russian delegate to the world disarmament conference, M. Ventzoff, asserted today that private arms factories were the only enterprises realizing a profit during the economic depression. He made this observation in proposing a drastic change in the American draft of an arms convention, to place the same restrictions on private as on state manufacture of armaments.

He argued that not only should private factories be controlled but their "potential of production" should be known.

"We must know what is going on behind closed doors," he said. If we are to deal a mortal blow to the world must know everything about war industries—capital, investments, new equipment, increase in workmen and maximum possible output, he continued.

The American draft provides that "military powers shall forward to the permanent disarmament committee a list of state establishments with a description of the instruments of war each is capable of manufacturing."

Woodrow Wilson, the United States representative, defended the American draft as a good middle-of-the-road attempt to meet a situation which must be remedied.

"The question of traffic in arms," he said, "furnishes more ground for contention than any one problem. Nations dealing with the traffic must be precise and must especially be sure to implement known as weapons."

William Borah, Denmark's delegate, alluded to the "let's simplify" slogan of Lord Stanhope, British representative, by saying: "It seems to me this might be taken to mean 'let's simplify'."

Bills for Payment in Gold Of U. S. Obligations Incurred Before Passage of Abrogation Act

Republicans in Both Houses Introduce Measures, Arguing Supreme Court Decision Makes Them Necessary.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Two Republicans, Senator Barbour of New Jersey and Representative Hollister of Ohio, have introduced bills in Congress which call for payment of gold on Government obligations that have gold clauses.

"I believe," Barbour said yesterday, "that we should not lose sight of the fact that the Government of the United States has made a solemn promise, or contract, which it later repudiated."

"That the unconstitutionality of this repudiation exists is evident in the statement of the Chief Justice. 'Congress does not want to be in the position—any event it should not be placed in the continuing position—of permitting laws that are unconstitutional to stand on the Federal statute books.'"

Both Barbour and Hollister's resolutions would amend the resolutions of June 5, 1933, under which the gold clauses were abrogated and would provide for redemption in gold of Government obligations issued before that date.

"No Danger of Unfair Profit." "It seems to me the gold clause resolution is in constitutional form with respect to all private contracts and with respect to all Government obligations which were incurred following the enactment of the gold clause act June 5, 1933," said Barbour.

"I do not feel that this measure creates any danger of some persons gaining unfair profits by reason of the fact that they are holders of United States obligations payable in gold and issued prior to June 5, 1933, since it is today illegal to hold gold."

Hollister spoke in similar vein, saying: "One of the great dangers of the times is the irresponsibility toward the constitution of many in high places. Congress almost daily is requested, importuned, even ordered to pass legislation of doubtful constitutionality."

Twice in recent weeks, he said, the Supreme Court has told Congress it has overstepped its powers. He added:

"Unless these repeated warnings are heeded the constitution in truth becomes a scrap of paper."

Warm Debate in Senate. While Democrats fought among themselves in the Senate yesterday over the administration's gold policies, Republicans sat back in silence.

The highlight of the debate was the assertion of Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, that the United States already was on a gold standard and should avoid the old system "which brought destruction."

Immediately Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, repeatedly at odds with Roosevelt monetary policies, popped up to shout: "We are on a fiat currency basis and following the decision of the Supreme Court on a fiat bond basis."

Connally and Glass Clash. "The Supreme Court has answered the Senator from Virginia," replied Connally.

"No, it hasn't answered me," said Glass. "The Court said that what was written on those notes was a cheat and a repudiation, and has said that in spite of this cheat and repudiation, if a holder of a note undertakes to get what is due him he can go to hell."

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, joined the discussion with the suggestion that a citizen who felt himself aggrieved had the privilege of taking his complaints to Congress. Connally concurred and expressed the opinion that the sooner the question was settled the better for economic conditions.

Thomas agreed, too, with Connally's statement that the country is now on a gold basis, asserting that the dollar today contains 15 grains plus of gold. Glass indignantly disagreed and asked how anyone could redeem his dollar in gold.

"Can't Eat Gold." "He can't go to hell and get gold," said Connally, "but why does he want it? Can he eat it? No, he can't eat it. Can he wear it? No, he can't unless he wears it to barbaric customs."

"No, he can't eat it," Glass interrupted. "He can't wear it. He can't get it. In other words gold has been demonetized. We are not on a gold standard."

NAZIS TO BORROW PRIVATE BUSINESS FUNDS FOR WORKS

MOBILIZING ALL AVAILABLE MONEY

Expects to Get Cash in Mortgage Banks' Liquid Assets and Companies' Reserves.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The Nazi Government has begun the general mobilization of all available funds to assure the purchase of materials and to consolidate debts for Germany's public works program.

Finance Minister von Schwerin-Krosigk has blanket authority to obtain credits wherever he can find them and in any amounts sanctioned by Chancellor Hitler.

A law was passed by the Cabinet, which said: "The Reichsminister of Finance is authorized to secure funds through credits of size to be determined by the Fuehrer upon the motion of the Reichsminister of Finance."

In a brief commentary it was explained that previously the Finance Minister was given authority to borrow money for meeting the deficit in 1933 in the general budget, and for calling in the 7 per cent loan in 1929. This time neither the amount nor the exact purpose is fixed by law.

Financial circles expected the Finance Minister to borrow in the capital market, and especially from mortgage banks, which are said to possess large liquid assets. It was further expected that all private companies with cash reserves will be made to turn the liquid assets into the Government's vast program of public works.

The money also will be used to finance the construction of a number of plants being erected to manufacture various synthetic or "ersatz" materials.

In the opinion of some American financial observers, all firms which must give up their liquid funds may soon find themselves "frozen."

Though official sources were silent on this point, there was a widespread belief in financial circles that the Government may to a certain extent call upon Germans who still have bank accounts and securities abroad, to make this form of exchange available to the Reich for the purchase of raw materials in return for Government securities in Reichsmarks.

Every German is compelled on pain of severe punishment to register with the Reichsbank a list of all foreign holdings. Until the present, the Reichsbank usually has notified owners of foreign credits by the national banking system. The next few weeks, the financial observers say, may tell a different story.

ANCIENT IMAGE UNEARTHED

LONDON, Feb. 22.—Prof. John Garstang, archaeologist, was reported today to have unearthed the earliest example of plastic art known to Palestine.

Sir Charles Marston, a member of the Garstang expedition to Jericho, announced the discovery by letter. The letter said that Garstang considered a cult image in clay, unearthed by the party, to be an object to be regarded as of first importance.

NEW DEAL GOING TO "RIGHT," SOVIET NEWSPAPER SAYS

Government Leans More and More to Conservatives, Izvestia Asserts.

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia indicated today that, as seen through Soviet eyes, the United States' new deal is leaning more and more toward the conservatives.

In commenting upon President Roosevelt's message requesting the prolongation of the NRA, Izvestia said:

"It is clear from the President's message that he and his advisers intend to make only insignificant changes from the old form of administration."

Admitting that there has been an improvement in the economic situation, the newspaper said that this, however, had not brought a real betterment of labor conditions in most of the important branches of industry.

"The latest symptoms of the growing tendency of the new deal toward the 'right,'" Izvestia said, "were to be found in 'the removal of most of the radical elements from the farm administration and in the violation of promises given the workers for collective labor contracts.'"

The tabulation was made from figures given by delegates from oil producing countries attending the annual meeting of the institute. World production was set at 1,553,000,000 barrels in 1934 against 1,417,891,400 barrels in 1933. American production last year was given as 909,350,000 barrels, highest since the 1929 production of 1,007,323,000 barrels, it was reported, which was 36,000,000 barrels above consumption.

49,380 ON FEDERAL RELIEF IN COUNTY

Population; Local Agencies Aid 700 Families.

The number of families under the care of the St. Louis County Relief Committee during January was 9876, an increase of 339 over the previous month, Howard M. Slates, administrator, said today.

The families represent about 49,380 individuals, or about 22.5 per cent of the county's population. Direct aid, consisting of food, clothing and necessities, was given to 8340 of the families under care, at a total cost of $144,716, or at an average cost of $17.35 per family. The total cost of direct relief was $3143 greater than for the previous month, when 7880 families received material aid.

All funds expended by the committee came from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, the committee having under its care only those families whose distress arises out of lack of employment. Private agencies and the St. Louis County Court have under care approximately 700 families, Slates said, whose distress arises out of special social problems. Funds for the care of the latter come from the United Relief headquarters and from the county revenue funds.

Work relief was extended by the committee during the month to 2020 individuals at a cost of $93,258. Labor projects employed 1545 at a cost of $67,052, and the technical and professional projects employed 475 at a cost of $26,206. Money for the work relief projects also came from the FERA.

ETHIOPIA, ITALY AGREE ON A NEUTRAL ZONE

Addis Ababa Government Accepts Proposal as to Somaliland Boundary.

By the Associated Press.
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Feb. 22.—The Ethiopian Government announced today it had accepted Italian proposals for creation of a neutral zone along the Ethiopia-Italian Somaliland boundary.

Instructions to carry out the arrangements, it was announced, have been sent to the Ethiopian commander-in-chief at Guerlogubi, by whom word of the agreement was to be conveyed to the Italian commander at Waldirai.

Two foreign military observers in the service of the Ethiopian Government, a Swede and a Belgian, have been sent to Guerlogubi to facilitate the negotiations. This arrangement elicited a protest from the Italian Minister here, who objected to the foreigners' participation in the affair.

Special Workers for Italian Army Sent to Ethiopian Border.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Feb. 22.—More than 1000 specialists, such as railroadmen, cement experts and mechanics of Northern Italy, embarked today at Genoa for Eritrea and Italian Somaliland, the Italian colonies bordering on Ethiopia. Some special military units with 200 workmen embarked at Naples.

A Government spokesman gave out the following new information regarding negotiations with the Ethiopian government at Addis Ababa:

"Without replying to the Italian answer accepting some of Addis Ababa's conditions for a neutral zone and rejecting others, Emperor Haile Selassie has sent an order to the military commander at Guerlogubi to create a zone.

"He was being 'smart' and he wanted to give the impression that Ethiopia was willing to create a zone and that Italy had refused. Our Minister has informed the Addis Ababa Government that this unilateral effort does not stand and that negotiations must continue for the creation of a zone under proper conditions."

The Rome and Milan stock markets were weak this morning owing to Ethiopian developments and new Government import regulations. Toward the end of the morning session, brokers were unofficially advised by their co-operative state organizations to do no more buying or selling.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Child Labor Amendment and the NRA.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WISH to commend you for your forward-looking editorial, "The Child Labor Amendment." Most people do not realize that this editorial marks a reversal of your past stand on the child labor question; nor, more significantly, that the child labor movement is a dead issue, from a humanitarian standpoint, in the United States henceforth.

The reason for this perplexing change of social objective is that we have recently discovered a far superior method of achieving civic and humanitarian ends than that proposed in this amendment. In the precedent NRA establishes, of a public right to fix minimum wages for all workers. When it is realized how sweeping and important this right is, it also is seen that a child labor amendment would be superfluous; since it would be uneconomic to hire children at a grown person's per diem.

Enforcement, thus, is perfect, and rests on a principle much more substantial and edifying than police power. In fact, I regard the precedent of a public right to fix minimum wages as the most transcendently important social advance in history. When this power is eventually used in the interests of social betterment, it will result in greater benefit both to grown-ups and children than would a thousand constitutional amendments. Even at present, it relieves us from the specter of a central authority reaching into every home to tell us how we must raise our children, and perhaps eventually, by the instrumentality of this precedent, how to live and manage our own personal affairs.

ROBERT W. GILES.

Chicago's Planetarium.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN connection with your recent suggestion for the construction of a planetarium in this city, it will be recalled that one of the places of greatest interest at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago was a planetarium.

A READER.

A Defense of Dr. Townsend.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your editorial of Feb. 14, "Dr. Townsend's Crawfishes," you lament that Dr. Townsend's ideas have resulted in cruelly deceiving many people. If this were the first shocking instance of deception, it might be worth seriously considering. But we have been frequently and long deceived by those we have elected to high office. They have given us glowing promises. The results speak for themselves.

Dr. Townsend is accused of having no conception of economic principles. In this case, he should feel quite at home in Washington. And he would not have felt at all out of place had he visited this city during some of our former administrations, judging by results. Some of us wonder just who has a monopoly of this "conception of economic principles."

Of course, Dr. Townsend's plan is not a cure-all even if it could be worked as the well-meaning old man proposed; yet it is just as good as some of the other loudly proclaimed panaceas.

ONE OF THE FORGOTTEN.

Mistaken.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WAS mistaken in regard to the $8.90 tax on my Richmond Heights property. This was not for grass-cutting, about which I was so indignant. Part of it evidently was paid to Clayton and Maplewood to the school fund.

JANE FRANCES DE CHANTELL.

Molasses for Taxpayers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE authorities are still having a hard time collecting taxes. Why do they not realize the inducement they offer in discount for paying the taxes ahead of time is much too small to attract the average and small taxpayer, and the penalties imposed are very much too great? It seems to me if more discount is allowed to those who pay ahead of time, many would make an effort to do so. Some public utilities allow a discount which is enticing enough to encourage their customers to pay their bills within a certain time limit. The old saying still holds true—you can catch more flies with molasses than you can with vinegar.

A TAXPAYER.

"Politics and Road Building."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE voters of Missouri owe you thanks for calling their attention to the Quinn bill in your editorial entitled "Politics and Road Building."

We have reason to be proud of our road system. When one stops to think that the greater portion of it has been built within the last 12 or 15 years and without excessive cost, we cannot help but conclude that our State Highway Department has been efficiently managed. To throw it and the State eleemosynary institutions into politics would be a blunder of the first magnitude.

We need only recall the road building troubles that our sister State of Arkansas has been passing through, and we certainly will look with disfavor upon any taint that savors of politics in our highways or eleemosynary institutions.

MRS. W. H. LEMMEL.
Flat River, Mo.

CONGRESS AND THE NRA.

Asserting that to abandon the fundamental purposes and principles of NRA is unthinkable, and that it would spell the return of industrial and labor chaos, President Roosevelt asks Congress to revise the act and make it effective for another two years.

The request meets the expectation of the nation, which has known quite well this would be the policy of the administration. The temper of the President's message is very fair. It admits the faults of NRA, the tendency toward monopoly, the absurdity of jail sentences for violations of codes, the oppression of such small business and the imperfections of a hastily organized administrative personnel. Upon the other hand, it credits the NRA with real social and economic accomplishments, such as the strictures upon child labor and unfair practices in business, the gain in employment and wages, and the right to bargain collectively which it gives to labor.

The President says we must continue "to recognize that incorrigible minorities within an industry, or in the whole field of trade and industry, should not be allowed to write the rules of unfair play and compel all others to compete upon their low level." He also says: "We must make certain that the privilege of co-operating to prevent unfair competition will not be transformed into license to strangle fair competition under the apparent sanction of law, or work to the oppression of small industries." He suggests that participation in codes should preferably be voluntary, but that the Government should always reserve power to compel participation. He is against price-fixing.

The disposition of the President is plainly to let Congress exercise discretion in extending and modifying the act. The NRA expires in June, so there is plenty of time to thresh the matter out thoroughly, to determine whether or not the Government is on the right track and how far it can serve the nation by co-operating with industry. The idea of self-regulation in industry is not the President's. It is the idea of industry itself. The original experiment developed so many glaring defects that it is extremely doubtful if the country is in a humor to have the experiment continued. The President seems to feel that the emergency for which the NRA was originally designed is still with us to a degree. If so, it is not with us in anything like the same form. We are immeasurably calmer than we were two years ago.

There will be powerful opposition to any continuance of NRA. There will also be powerful support for it. Industries like coal, oil and textiles, which virtually owe their salvation to NRA, will doubtless support it. So will industries like the drug industry, dry goods, clothing and, to some extent, steel and automobiles. The part that NRA played in making it possible for these industries to protect themselves from throat-cutting competition is far from forgotten. The President feels that NRA has given some 4,000,000 people employment, that it has scored great gains for labor, that it has to a considerable degree increased distribution among the masses of the profits from industry. He credits it with having wiped out the sweat shop and greatly reduced child labor.

This is the bright side of NRA. There is also a dark side. The act amounted at the outset to a bargain between government and industry, by which industry was to enjoy certain exemptions from the anti-trust laws and was in turn to grant certain concessions to labor. The difficulty in the operation of the act was that both industry and labor exaggerated the concessions made to them. The one abused its privileges to make exorbitant profits, the other to make unreasonable demands. The President was far less able to stop monopolistic abuses than he was to keep the Government from being put in the position of championing labor to the injury of industry. His action in the automobile code made it quite clear that the Government is in effect neutral, that its concern is the common interest, the employment of the unemployed and preservation of the social system. His refusal to reopen the automobile code, upon the score that to do so would disturb a condition in which the industry was thriving and employment was high, illustrated graphically what his position is.

The debate over Section 7A will be spirited, but it is unlikely that the wording of the section will be much disturbed. The Government should not obligate itself to umpire labor disputes, and if it is wise, it will continue to withhold itself from this folly. Section 7A is sounder in this respect than the compulsion contemplated in the Wagner bill now before Congress proposing an industrial relations board with judicial powers. Section 7A gives labor a right, the impetus of which has been immensely helpful to labor. That is all it is, and it is all it should be. The President says NRA can be greatly simplified, and it can. If Congress is to decide that its extension is necessary, a few simple rules can well replace the complexities of the original act. We do not even know at this time whether it is constitutional. We must not forget that the NRA was an experiment, the first of its kind in history. The President feels that it is sound in principle. If so, it must be perfected until it is a real service to the nation. With its original license feature and its jail penalties, it smacked of medievalism.

A RESOLUTION WHICH SHOULD BE ADOPTED.

A joint resolution looking to a change in the Missouri Constitution so as to permit the operation of mutual savings banks and savings bank insurance has been introduced in the Missouri Legislature by Representative J. Jules Brinkman of the Second St. Louis district. If the Legislature approves this resolution, a proposition incorporating the necessary change in the banking section will be submitted to the voters of the State a year from next November. No one can say how the mutual savings bank and insurance system would work in Missouri. It is in point, however, to note that the number of states which have such banks is now 18, considerably more than a third of the Union. Banking of this character has developed to the greatest extent along the Atlantic seaboard, particularly in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Delaware. At the close of last year, the assets in the member banks in the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks totaled $11,055,498,096 and the number of depositors stood at the new high level of 13,836,975. According to Philip A. Benson, president of the association, mutual institutions "as usual, regularly earned and paid their dividends" during 1934. In the matter of savings bank insurance, Representative Brinkman has in mind the Massachusetts system, started a generation ago by Louis D. Brandeis, now a member of the Supreme Court. It is not necessary to indorse the principle of mutual savings banks and related insurance to say that the Legislature ought to approve Representative Brinkman's resolution. Approval by the Legislature would do no more than place the matter before the people of Missouri for discussion and subsequent decision at the polls. If the voters did not care for the idea after investigating the experience of other states, they could reject it. We trust that the Legislature will see the Brinkman proposal in this light.

SEVERANCE IN CRIMINAL TRIALS.

In the case of Mrs. Gertrude Puhse and Thomas J. Lehne, sentenced to death for murder, the Illinois Supreme Court held that the lower court "did not abuse its discretion" in refusing to grant separate trials to the defendants. Unlike Illinois, Missouri makes it mandatory for a Judge to grant separate trials to defendants in the same criminal case, if they so request, even though facts concerning each of them are identical.

The consequences of this law are perfectly exemplified in the Kelley kidnapping case. Two of the four defendants (the fifth is at large) have been tried and convicted, each on almost exactly the same set of facts. Both trials were long-drawn-out and entailed large expense. Witnesses who told their stories fully at the first trial were compelled to repeat them at the second. When the third and fourth defendants are tried, the process will be repeated. It is, we submit, a senseless waste of time, energy and money.

In the case of the death or disappearance of an essential witness during the delay attendant upon granting separate trials to a number of defendants, the State's case might, and sometimes does, collapse. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that in some criminal cases, important witnesses have been killed before they could testify.

In Missouri, the law says: When two or more defendants are jointly indicted for any felony, any one defendant, before announcing himself ready for trial at any term of the court, if he require it, shall be tried separately.

Commenting on this statute, the Missouri Crime Survey says:

It must be admitted that there are many times when a separate trial is due to a particular defendant as a matter of justice, but it must also be conceded that, in many other instances, a separate trial for each joint defendant puts the State to unnecessary expense and delay and imposes an unfair handicap. It is impossible to fix, by statute, a hard and fast rule, applying with equal justice to all cases. The question of whether a separate trial should be allowed is one which should be addressed to the discretion of the court, and the statute should be amended so to provide. Upon this point, the Circuit Judges of Missouri have expressed their approval by a vote of 37 to 4.

A bill is now pending before the Legislature to effect this reform. If it passes, Missouri's practice will be the same, not only as that of Illinois and many other states, but as that of the Federal Government. As in many other aspects of criminal procedure reform, Missouri's progress is blocked by a small group of lawyers in the Legislature who profit by the operations of our present antiquated code.

A DIPLOMATIST SET LUXE.

Sir Arthur Michael Samuel, member of Parliament and former Financial Secretary of the Treasury, has been prevailed upon to tell what he thinks about the Supreme Court's gold decisions. He thinks Europe can no longer place any reliance upon any contract with the United States upon which to base stabilization of exchange for the restoration of international trade. He also thinks the United States may never again criticize the action of her war debtors.

It seems to us the British Empire has not made the best use of Sir Arthur's talents. The chap may have done great work as a Financial Secretary, and as a member of Parliament he may be a pillar of fire by night, but, manifestly, his metier is diplomacy. The tact, the discretion, the finesse of the man would, we feel sure, accomplish miracles in the difficult business of maintaining the entente cordiale while still conserving the Empire's interests.

As an Ambassador of Good Will, Sir Arthur would rivet the Anglo-American alliance with a hyphen of steel. The English-Speaking Union ought to send him around the circuit.

WASHINGTON AND PARSON WEEMS.

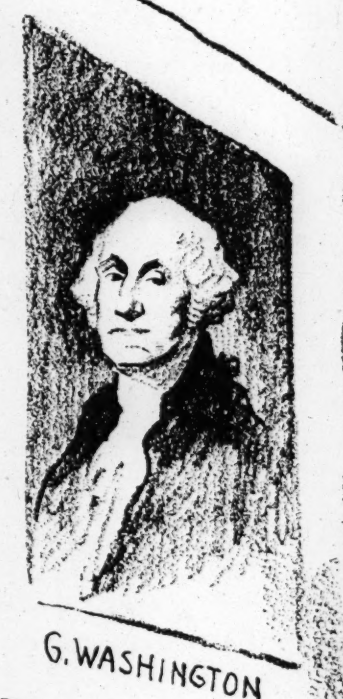

"Father, I cannot tell a lie; I did it with my little hatchet." By those simple words, more than by any wise counsel from his farewell address or by formal periods from other state papers, is George Washington remembered. The debunkers have used their own little hatchets on the cherry tree incident, however, and the verdict of a sophisticated age is that the tale is legend, not history. Authorship is attributed to the Rev. Mason Locke Weems, who, it is said, invented the fable to add a little glamour to Washington's prosaic boyhood, and to teach a moral lesson the while.

Parson Weems, itinerant preacher, book peddler, fiddler and tract writer, thus has fallen low in the esteem of the exaltitudinarians for falsifying the record to make Washington a paragon of honesty. He has a friend, however, in the Rev. Jerry Wallace, rector of Christ Church at Springfield, Ill., who, in a slender volume recently published, takes up the cudgels for Washington's "quaint biographer." Weems is responsible for posterity's conception of Washington, he says, for a legend that warms every American heart, whose symbols perpetuate the first President's memory. Admitting its exaggerations and inaccuracies, he yet assesses the Weems biography as the best, the most human, with the aphorism, "When history becomes drab, history is false."

Would Washington's rather austere personality today remain "first in the hearts of his countrymen" without the humanizing influence of the Weems fable? History or humbug, the hatchet story is firmly a part of the American tradition, and is faithfully recalled by a devoted nation on each Feb. 22.

A NEGLECTED COPYRIGHT TREATY.

The International Copyright Union, to protect authors from foreign literary pirates, was formed in 1891, but the United States has not yet become a member. Bilateral copyright treaties have been made with most countries, but protection of American writers abroad, and of foreign writers here, will be incomplete until this country joins the international body. The matter will again come before the Senate at the current session, and Senator Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, predicted a few days ago that it would pass. Since Americans sell about six times as many books abroad as foreigners market here, this country has more to gain than possibly could be lost by entering the agreement. There should be no boundaries to art and literature, but the present arrangement is a hindrance to the international circulation. A long-standing oversight will be remedied by ratification of the pact.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

Why the Administration Is Weaker

THE President's habit of dealing with one subject at a time worked very well in the early days. It is no longer working so well. The series of short, sharp recommendations, calling for quick action and little talk, were just what the country needed to restore its confidence after the devastating deadlock in the second half of Mr. Hoover's term. But now that the panic has been quelled, it is not enough to call for action. It is necessary also to explain and persuade.

Great as is the popular faith in the President, that faith will disintegrate under the pressure of special interests unless he can make clear to the people the general principles behind his program.

In attempting to make his general principles clearer to the people, it is not unlikely that he will be compelled to make them clearer to himself. As matters stand today, public opinion is overwhelmed and bewildered by what appears to be a haphazard collection of issues, ranging from the furious debate about wages to be paid on relief projects to the heated debate about proposals for renovating the Federal Reserve System. The ordinary citizen, unless he happens to think he has a direct interest in some one of these questions, finds them unintelligible, loses the thread of the argument, becomes bored with what he does not understand and leaves the issues to the pressure groups.

Yet most of the questions which are being churned around in Washington are really aspects of the same question. The economic system has been thrown violently out of balance, and it cannot recover until a balance is once again achieved. The question is where and by whom the adjustments are to be made. It is the question which President Hoover failed to answer, and that failure destroyed his administration. It is the question which President Roosevelt answered in part, but by no means consistently, and his inconsistency is the main reason why he has achieved only a partial recovery.

If we keep that question clearly in mind, the whole collection of issues—prevailing wage, monopoly, price-fixing, production control, unemployment insurance, minimum wages under the NRA, payments for not producing under AAA, devaluation, gold clause, the main features of the new banking bill—begin to make sense.

Let us see how Mr. Hoover dealt with this question. He called employers and trade unionists to Washington and appealed to them not to reduce prices or wages. He drew upon the Federal Treasury for funds to hold up farm prices and he advised farmers to produce less. He drew upon the Federal Treasury to support banks and railroads and called upon business men not to liquidate and reorganize. Finally, he fought resolutely to keep the dollar at its gold parity.

He tried, in short, to peg everything, wages, prices, debts and the currency, and he taught everyone to believe that it was a public duty to keep them "stabilized" where they were. But since they were drastically out of balance with each other, this was a policy of trying to freeze the depression, while hoping that nature would cure it. Something had to blow up somewhere. It did.

Mr. Roosevelt saw that this was an impossible policy and that if a balance was to be restored, he had to make some drastic readjustments somewhere. He changed the gold value of the currency. He began to refinance farm and home mortgages. These two measures brought immense relief. They

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

IT IS the boast of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that the "highway system of Missouri is one of the best in the country, because politics had little or nothing to do with it. The highways are for the most part honestly built, and they stand by comparison with those in states which let politics intrude upon road building."

But the Post-Dispatch warns that the majority in the Missouri Senate proposes a Quinn bill to make politics the controlling factor in appointments to the State Highway Department and eleemosynary institutions. The bill provides that no employee of any department, except the public schools, shall be paid his or her salary until there is on file with the Secretary of State a statement of the recipient's political affiliations.

The Post-Dispatch is not deceived as to the design of the measure. It is quite well known at Jefferson City that politicians would dearly love to get their hands on the State highway organization. The expenditures, rapidly mounting by reason of increased Federal funds, are one of the juiciest of patronage plums. There will be many jobs and many contracts. Several administrations, whether Democratic or Republican, have successfully resisted efforts to make a political fief of the Highway Department.

That is a proud record. How pleasant the duty of a great newspaper to defend such a policy against the onslaught of greed and graft and point to accomplishment that honors a state by "comparison with states where let politics intrude upon road building." Missourians have been shown. We shall see if they abide by their slogan.

NATURAL GAS WASTE IN TEXAS.

From the San Antonio (Tex.) Express.

REPORTED that in the Panhandle field known as the worst, but not the only, offender in the present waste of natural gas amounts to more than a billion feet a day. That means that the fuel blown into the air and every 24 hours is enough to supply the entire country's household needs. Enough gas is lost in one week to pay for the Capitol Building at Austin. The waste during the month exceeds Texas' total consumption for light and fuel during an entire year.

The loss thus suffered is permanent in one way or another, the people will pay for gas as a natural resource—one of the most valuable which Texas possesses. Because that fuel is apparently so abundant, the people do not perceive how much it is, or will be, worth to them. Certainly they do not realize that the supply is exhaustible, or they would be aroused to demand effective conservation measures.

Upon that clean, cheap, easily transported fuel largely read Texas' hopes of industrial empire. Yet at the present rate, by the time the State shall get ready to install many factories, foundries and refineries, it will have little gas left.

The senseless waste must stop, and the Legislature is taking steps to that end. As the greater waste comes from stripping (to obtain gasoline which merely piles up an over-supply), the legislators are considering repeal of the act authorizing that practice. If stripping is to be allowed, the residue gas should be stored in tanks.

Of course, the best storage for gas—for crude oil—is the natural underground reservoir. The Legislature should devise conservation laws which will be both equitable and effectual.

They are urging the hefty New Yorker to chuck his pose of aloofness and fight back.

And the first thing they want him to do is to have a plain talk with the chief—the President.

They want Jim to tell F. D. R. frankly that since he is being asked for things he did with President Roosevelt, the President should now come to his defense.

That Roosevelt has not raised his voice is resented in the Farley camp.

The "Honesty" McKee candidacy against Mayor Fiorella La Guardia, the fight against Senator Bronson Cutting, the cancellation of the air mail contracts, and a number of other affairs for which Farley is now being denounced were all undertaken with full White House knowledge and approval.

FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR JOHN L. HEATON

Served as Editorial Writer on New York World for 31 Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Funeral services for John Langdon Heaton, 75 years old, editorial writer for the New York World for 31 years and close associate of the late Joseph Pulitzer, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the home, 131 Westminster road, Brooklyn.

Mr. Heaton, who was a life member of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, died at his home late yesterday after suffering from a nerve ailment for three years.

He served as editorial writer for the World from 1899 until 1931, when the paper was purchased by the Scripps-Howard Newspaper Chain and merged with the Telegram to form the World-Telegram.

"Mr. Heaton could not serve so powerful a paper so long without at times helping to make history," he wrote of his service on the World in an obituary prepared by himself in 1933. "There was the episode of blue-eyed Billy Sheehan, who aspired to the Senatorship. Legislative insurgents asked Edward M. Shepard to enter the lists with Sheehan. Mr. Shepard sought and followed the advice of Mr. Heaton, who told him, as representing the World, 'You cannot be elected. You can add to a creditable career of public service by blocking Mr. Sheehan.'"

A legislative leader of insurgents in that successful fight was a young man new to politics in New York State, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Hughes' Insurance Inquiry.

"There was a critical time in the career of Chief Justice (Charles E.) Hughes. Mr. Hughes had done good work as counsel to the legislative committee upon gas problems. A greater inquiry to which a reluctant legislature was driven by the World was at hand, the famous insurance investigation. State Senator Armstrong and one or two associates in the committee called upon Mr. W. H. Merrill, chief editorial writer, and Mr. Heaton to ask if they would recommend a lawyer for chief counsel. They declined.

"How would Charles E. Hughes suit you?" asked Mr. Armstrong. "He would be quite satisfactory," was the reply. All the World wanted was an honest effort to get at the facts as a basis for necessary legislation.

Men of middle age will remember the masterly way in which Mr. Hughes handled the inquiry leading up to his election as Governor, and his very near election later as President."

Mr. Heaton's Career.

"Born in Canton, N. Y., in 1860, son of Ira Willmarth and Lucinda Langdon Heaton, Mr. Heaton was graduated from St. Lawrence University in 1880. After teaching a year at Rutgers College grammar school, he joined the editorial staff of the Brooklyn Times. He left to establish the Providence (R. I.) News, and later returned to New York, serving on the Recorder until it went out of publication. He then joined the World and soon was promoted to the editorial writing department.

In 1929 he and Charles Mera were appointed associate editors of the World.

Among books written by him are "The Story of Vermont," "The Quilting Bee" and "Tough Luck—Hoover Again!" the last expressing the hope liberal-minded Americans might be a factor in the presidential election of 1936.

His wife, the former Eliza Osborn L. Putnam of Danvers, Mass., died in 1919. Their only child, a son, died in 1926.

RECIPES FOR NEXT WEEK

Sliced Sweet Potato Pie.
Line a deep pie plate with pie crust and chill. Boil or bake six or eight medium sized sweet potatoes until about half done. Cool, peel and slice in about one-fourth inch pieces. Place a layer of the sliced potatoes in the pie plate, sprinkle with a thick layer of brown sugar, two tablespoons butter cut in little pieces, one teaspoon flour and one-half teaspoon cinnamon. Add the rest of the potatoes, piling them up slightly in the middle and sprinkle them with sugar, butter, flour and spice as before. Mix one-third cup each sherry or rum with water, or lemon or pineapple juice and water and pour over the potatoes. Cover with a top crust and pinch the edges closely together. Cut two slits in the top and bake in a moderate oven (375 degree) for one hour. Serve warm or cold. Serves six.

Charlotte Russe.
Beat three egg yolks with three tablespoons sugar for three minutes. Then stir in three tablespoons cake flour sifted with one-half teaspoon baking powder. Mix thoroughly and then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, folding the mixture over and over until no white can be seen. Pour into a greased shallow pan so that the batter is a scant half-inch thick. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven (375 degree). Remove the pan, turn upside down and let the cake cool in the pan. Remove with a spatula and cut in strips to line paper case or glass sherbet cups. Fill with whipped cream sweetened and flavored as desired. Garnish each charlotte russe with a maraschino cherry. Makes enough for six portions. One-half pint cream will be required to fill the cases.

Curried Beef Kidneys.
Soak two small beef kidneys in cold, salted water to cover for one to two hours. Drain and cut lengthwise in half. Remove the tough white membrane through the center and cut the kidneys in small pieces crosswise. Mix one-quarter cup flour with one teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon pepper. Roll the kidneys in the flour. Melt one-quarter cup bacon or pork drippings in a deep frying pan, add a large onion cut in thin slices and stir until the onion is yellowed. Add one tablespoon good curry powder and then stir in the kidneys. Cook until the kidneys begin to brown. Add one cup tomato juice, 1½ cups boiling water, one tablespoon vinegar and one slice from a clove of garlic and one teaspoon sugar. Cover closely and simmer for one hour. Thicken the mixture with one tablespoon flour mixed with cold water if necessary. Usually the flour used on the kidneys makes a moderately thick gravy. Serve with plenty of boiled rice and chutney pickle. Serves six.

Raisin Cookies.
Cream together one-half cup butter or margarine and one cup soft brown sugar. When thoroughly blended add one egg and beat hard for a minute. Then stir in one-half cup milk. Sift three cups flour with two teaspoons baking powder and add to make a dough that can be easily rolled. If necessary, add more flour a little at a time, working in each tablespoonful before adding more. Turn out on a floured board and roll very thin. Cut with a medium-sized round cutter and put two cookies together with raisin filling between. Pinch the edges firmly together, place on greased pans and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for 10 minutes.

Baked Molasses Pudding.
Mix one cup brown sugar with one cup sifted flour and one-half teaspoon salt. Melt one-half cup butter or margarine and mix with one-half cup sour milk and one teaspoon baking soda. Stir one cup molasses into the flour and sugar mixture, then add the milk mixture and beat for a minute. Next add three well-beaten eggs, stir to mix and pour into a well-greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees) for 30 to 45 minutes or until firm. The time depends on the depth of the baking dish. Serve warm with lemon or whipped cream sauce.

CRAB MEAT RAREBIT

One tablespoonful butter
One tablespoonful flour
One can mushroom soup
One can crab meat
One and a half cups soft bread crumbs
One-quarter teaspoonful salt
Dash of pepper
One cupful grated American cheese
Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Pour in soup and stir over slow heat until thickened. Strip bones from crab meat, then flake and add with the remaining ingredients, using three-quarter cupful of the cheese, to the soup mixture. Continue heating until cheese is melted, then pour into a shallow baking dish, sprinkle with remaining cheese and bake under broiler just long enough to brown slightly. Serve on golden brown toast. Serves six.

Potato Chips With Cheese.
Add two teaspoons ketchup or chile sauce and one teaspoon horseradish to one package cream cheese. Mix until soft enough to spread on potato chips or thin wafers.

MRS. A. A. BRUCE FINDS NEW BREAD A VALUABLE AID TO HEALTH

Since Eating Honey Krushed Wheat Bread She Is No Longer Troubled With Constipation

"Ever since my childhood, I have been troubled with constipation," writes Mrs. A. A. Bruce of McDonough, Mo. "I have been forced to take a cathartic pill in order to cleanse my system. Since eating your new Honey Krushed Wheat Bread, however, I have found it is no longer necessary for me to use cathartics or pills. I now have normal elimination and am feeling like a new person. I highly recommend this bread to anyone who is troubled with constipation. It is a real relief. People take too little exercise. They rise too often—they walk enough. After eating a Honey Krushed Wheat Bread, they feel they motor downtown, street cars or buses and take time to reach upper floors. Nature gives no assistance. Intermissions become sluggish, and in time to function. Constipation results, and the usual recourse is to cathartics."

In Honey Krushed Wheat Bread, the St. Louis Bread Company presents a delicacy that actually defeats common constipation quickly and pleasantly. This "different" bread—baked by a secret formula—utilizes the whole wheat kernel, pure honey and other ingredients recognized by authorities as effective in relieving the cause of eliminative troubles.

MAKE THIS 10-DAY TEST
If you are troubled with constipation—if you feel sluggish when you arise in the morning—if you go around peevish all day and finish with a headache at night, then try Honey Krushed Wheat Bread for just ten days. Its benefits are progressive, accumulative and enduring. Insist on genuine Honey Krushed Wheat Bread—already sliced and wrapped in cellophane. Your grocer has it. AN UNUSUAL RECIPE FOR A DIFFERENT DISH

THERE is no need to admit that this pie is simple to make. When your friends ask for the name and beg you for the recipe you can call it upside down pie.

Lazy Pie.
Two cups sliced apples
One teaspoon cinnamon
One tablespoon butter
One cup sour cream
One teaspoon soda
One-half teaspoon salt
Three tablespoons sugar
One and a half cups flour
Arrange apples on the bottom of a pan. Sprinkle with the cinnamon, a little sugar and dot with butter. Mix other ingredients well and pour over apples. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees), for 20 minutes. Turn upside down and serve with cream.

A LITTLE CHAT ABOUT NEXT WEEK'S MENUS

Change in Usual Winter Foods Provided by New Seasonings and Different Methods.

There is not much new in the food line this time of year but there are always lots of things that can be done when necessary with every-day foods to change their appearance and flavor to provide variety in the family meals.

Rice Waffles for Breakfast.
Sunday's breakfast is not especially exciting, we must admit, but crisp rice waffles served with butter and syrup are not to be exactly ignored. For dinner, the charlotte russe will bring you grateful appreciation, to say nothing of the foods that precede it, providing you have selected and prepared and served them as they deserve to be handled. For instance, cook the roast at a moderate temperature to keep it moist and tender; be sure the soup is well flavored and piping hot when served; cook the cauliflower just long enough to have it tender and keep the pieces whole, not a mass of mush. See that the salad is well chilled, served on cold plates and daintily arranged. It is simple enough, just slices of firm navel oranges, dipped in honey, then in chopped nuts and arranged on lettuce, to be served with a French dressing.

Shrimp Good Now.
Shrimp are good this time of year; we are speaking of the fresh shrimp, for, of course, the canned variety is good any time. Fresh shrimp are available most of the year round, but more are sold in the winter when the Florida and Texas supply comes in. Shrimp are a perishable product and it is easier to ship them and keep them in good condition in the winter months. The fish are shipped with their heads off, and you will find that they range in size from one and one-half to three inches in length.

If bought raw, they should be a greenish gray in color. When cooked, they turn pink. Some shops sell them ready cooked. If you are sure that they have been freshly cooked, it is safe to buy them so, but generally speaking it is preferable to buy them raw and cook them yourself. After cooking they must be shelled and the little black vein that runs along the back must be removed. Canned shrimp are ready to use without further cooking, but they must be drained.

Beef Kidneys Highly Nutritive.
Beef kidneys are inexpensive and high in nutritive value. Get used to serving them occasionally. This week we cook them with curry, a splendid seasoning that you either like very much or not at all. It's very much like olives in that a taste for it can be acquired if you keep at it long enough. Buy a good grade of curry powder. It lasts such a long time that it is a cheap flavoring in the long run, and only a good grade will keep its flavor until used. Always serve rice, dry, flaky, boiled rice, with curried meats or fish. This is the type of thing (namely the use of curry powder once in a while) that can be used to change totally the everyday appearance of an inexpensive food.

FRENCH TARTS
Bake individual pastry shells, fill with sliced ripe bananas and cover with apricot glaze, made as follows:

One-fourth pound dried apricots.
One and one-half cup water.
One-fourth cup sugar.
Soak apricots in water several hours. Drain, remove skins, return to water in which they were soaked, cook slowly 15 minutes. Press through a sieve, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Pour the glazed apricots over tarts filled with bananas. Cool and serve topped with a spoonful of whipped cream.

MAKE A PUDDING OF TURNED MILK AND CORNBREAD

This is an excellent way of using cornbread that has gone stale and milk that has turned. If you happen to have cornbread but no sour milk, use sweet milk and omit the soda.

Sour Milk Pudding.
One cup stale cornbread.
Two cups sour milk.
One egg.
One-half teaspoon soda.
One-half cup raisins.
One-quarter teaspoon cinnamon.
Four tablespoons molasses.
Crumble bread and soak it in the milk for half an hour. Add beaten egg, raisins, soda and spice. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) until it begins to set. Spread molasses over the top and continue baking until firm. The molasses makes a rich brown caramel crust.

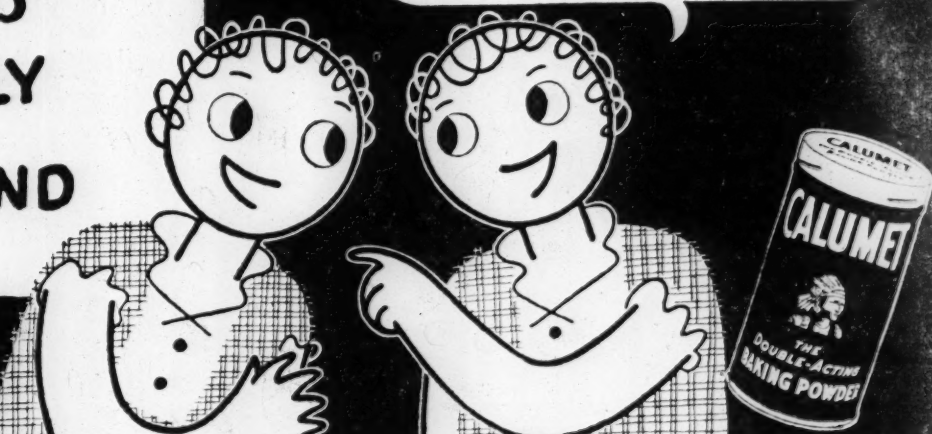

Baked Stuffed Spareribs.
Select a whole sparerib piece, or part of two, so that one part can be laid over the other. Remove the skin-like covering on the outside of the ribs, then rub with one teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon pepper to each pound of meat. Stuff a prune or apple stuffing over the larger piece, cover with the other part, and fasten with small skewers to hold the stuffing in place. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 1/2 hours.

Serve with fruit cup, creamed cauliflower, tomato and cucumber salad, chocolate tapoca and coffee.

I haven't been able to go to the movies lately because it took me all evening to wash my dinner dishes. It's made Henry awfully mad when he had to call me several times to let the dishes go and come to bed. Then Tillie told me about "So-and-so" Soap. I use it every night now and Henry and I go to the movies all the time. Henry HAS been complaining about his breakfast eggs tasting a little "soapy" but WHO ever heard of EGGS tasting like soap. Maybe Henry RUSHES his BREAKFAST too much. What do you think?

IT'S RIDICULOUS, OF COURSE, BUT—
You are expected to believe stories every day that are even more exaggerated than the "caricature" above. Magic Washer Powdered Soap needs no "bunk", "ballyhoo" or gross exaggeration to merit your approval.

There is no mystery about soap

Soap can do but one thing: clean fabrics, surfaces or the human body. There are many good, safe soaps on the market. It is a question of what added features are offered and how much pure soap you get for your money.

Feature Number 1

Magic washer is a pure, neutral, finely powdered soap that will quickly and safely clean anything that water will not harm.

To Cook or Not to Cook
A Point in Vegetables

One or Two Raw Recommended, but Cooked Vegetables Are Favored Because They Are More Palatable.

To cook or not to cook vegetables has been a moot point for some time. Raw vegetable addicts are right when they insist that much of the food value is lost in cooking; over-cooking to be exact, and that is why experts, who steer a middle course, suggest one raw vegetable and fruits in the daily diet.

There are a good many reasons for cooking vegetables. If our digestive apparatus were still primitive we might relish chewing raw potatoes and greens. We might also still be enjoying cave life and the close proximity of wild animals. Cooking softens vegetables, reduces their bulk and makes them easier to digest. The flavor is changed to one that is more palatable and with the right kind of cooking very little food value is lost.

Roughage Necessary.
With most vegetables the fibrous structure is softened in cooking. This structure is the invisible framework that gives the vegetable shape and form and holds the substance together. Scientists call it cellulose but the layman calls it simply "roughage." Roughage cannot be digested and its purpose is solely to furnish bulk which aids elimination.

MAKE A MEAL OF THIS PIE AND A ONE-DISH MEAL AT THAT

THE person who could make a meal off pie evidently had this kind of pie in mind, a hearty, one-dish meal that requires only salad and dessert for complete satisfaction.

Tamale Pie.
One pound ground beef.
One-half pound ground pork.
One tablespoon chili powder.
One cup cooked lima beans.
One cup ripe olives pitted or sliced.
Two cups raisins.
Two cups milk.
One-half cup corn meal.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Mix the ingredients in the order given, stirring the cornmeal and salt in last. Turn into a greased or buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for one hour.

The cellulose in potatoes and sweet potatoes is already so soft that one can afford to forget about it. In kale or string beans it is coarse and present in large quantities which cooking makes more palatable. The softened cellulose makes an agreeable carrier for the nutritive substance and flavor of the food. Vegetables taste better when they are cooked and consequently we eat more than we do when they are raw.

Cooking Important.
The important point that the cook should know is just what cooking does to the minerals and vitamins. Minerals may cook out of the vegetables if the water in which they have cooked is saved for soups and gravies. If this water is thrown away, valuable calcium, iron, phosphorus or other minerals are lost. Long cooking destroys vitamin B₁ and C. Therefore it is recommended that as little water as possible is used in cooking and that the vegetables be cooked only until they are tender and that all the liquid is used.

Over-cooking Destroys Flavor.
Long cooking makes the cellulose soft and mushy. The original flavor of the vegetable is sometimes utterly changed or completely lost. Cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts lose their identity if overcooked. Cabbage cooked for five or 15 minutes has a delicate flavor and practically no odor. The disagreeable odor that permeates a house and persists for hours is the result of long cooking of cabbage. The chemical substance in the vegetable is decomposed into sulphurous compounds which are responsible for the odor.

Green peas, carrots, squash, onions and all the vegetables containing sugar lose sweetness and flavor when they are overcooked. Sugar dissolves readily in water and for this reason steaming is better since it conserves both the flavor and the food value.

Save Natural Color.
There is a difference between the cellulose in young vegetables and the cellulose in mature ones. Young carrots and beets are tender where winter carrots and beets are mature and sometimes woody. Young vegetables may be cooked in their skins with practically no loss of flavor, but the mature vegetables must be cut, exposing more surface to water and thus losing more flavor and nutritive value. To prevent this they should be cooked in very little water.

The green color of vegetables which most cooks admire and seek to retain is the natural chlorophyll or green coloring matter. Vegetables cooked in hard or alkaline water retain their color because the alkali neutralizes the vegetable acid which would, when heated, destroy this natural coloring. Vegetables cooked in uncovered water pans retain their color and some cooks add a pinch of baking soda for this purpose. There is no way, however, of keeping the color in steamed vegetables.

Vinegar for Red Cabbage.
Red cabbage and onions need acid to preserve their coloring and vinegar is added for this purpose. Beets have enough natural acid. They lose color only if they are cooked without their skins and in too much water. Tomatoes, sweet potatoes, carrots, yellow turnips and squash hold their color without the addition of acid. So do white vegetables. They may be steamed, baked or boiled to heart's content. The color stays.

LEMON TAPIoca
One-third cup tapioca.
Three cups boiling water.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Rind one lemon.
One cup sugar.
One-half cup lemon juice.
Two egg whites, stiffly beaten.
Combine first four ingredients; cook 20 to 30 minutes. Remove lemon rind; add sugar and lemon juice. Fold in egg whites lightly; chill thoroughly. Serves six.

This delicious fruit from the Sturgeon Bay District is most carefully selected both before harvesting and after expert hand picking.

The grade requires selection of large, bright color, firm texture, and the unexcelled tart, tangy flavor which has made this delicious fruit so popular. Then these cherries are immersed in large tanks of ice cold pure spring water for thorough cleansing and hardening the fruit.

The next step is by automatic conveyor to the large pitting machines which press out the seeds so perfectly that you can hardly discern the removal.

One can sufficient fruit for a full, large pie.

LITTLE KNOWN LAMB CUTS VERY SAVORY

Shoulder, Neck and Shank
When Prepared Properly
Make Good Thrifty Dishes.

When you have racked your brains trying to find a way to clip the corners from your meat allowance, don't give up in utter despair. There are number of meat cuts on the market, lamb cuts at that, which many housewives have overlooked. Neck, breast, shoulder and shanks make splendid, savory dishes when they are prepared properly. And since Government experts tell that meat is rather scarce, the housewife is doing her share in finding some use for these less known cuts.

Meats that are boiled, whether they are beef, veal or lamb, should be placed in boiling water, allowed to boil for 10 minutes. Then the temperature is lowered to simmering. This method keeps the meat juices where they belong, in the meat and not in the liquid in which they are boiled. Braising, which many cooks have heard of but never tried, requires a slightly different procedure. The meat is seared well on all sides, that is, it is placed in a roasting pan, turned until browned. A little water is added and the meat is cooked slowly until tender.

Roast of Lamb.
Five-pound lamb shoulder roast. Salt and pepper to taste. One clove garlic. One bay leaf. Two whole cloves. Eight potatoes, sliced. Six onions, sliced. Three tablespoons chopped parsley. Two cups boiling water.

Sear the roast in a hot oven. Season with salt and pepper and rub with garlic. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake for one and one-half hours. Put potatoes, onions, and remaining ingredients around roast. Add boiling water and bake until tender, about one hour. This quantity serves six.

Neck of Lamb in Casserole.
Four-pound neck of lamb. One-half cup flour. Bacon for frying.

Two carrots. Three potatoes.

Simmer lamb until tender. Remove the meat from the bone in medium sized pieces. Roll in flour and brown in bacon fat. Place in a baking dish and cover with thickened meat stock to which the raw diced carrots and potatoes have been added. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until vegetables are tender, for about 30 minutes. Serve six.

Lamb Dumplings.
Three lamb shanks. Three cloves. One-eighth teaspoon celery seed. One bay leaf. One teaspoon salt. One-half teaspoon pepper. Three tablespoons catsup. One cup diced carrots. One cup diced turnips. One cup diced potatoes.

Simmer lamb shanks with seasonings until tender, about two hours. Add vegetables 30 minutes before meat is done. Cut the meat from the bone in good-sized pieces. For dumplings sift two cups flour with four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Add two-thirds cup milk, mixing to form a soft dough. Drop from a spoon in the simmering broth. Cover closely and cook for about 15 minutes. Serve lamb on platter covered with vegetables and surrounded by dumplings. This quantity serves six.

Lamb Chops Paysanne.
Six thick shoulder chops. One medium-sized onion. Two tablespoons butter. Twelve small turnips. Flour, salt and pepper.

Flour and season the chops. Slice the onion and brown in butter. Place the chops in a casserole, add onion, thinly sliced turnips and enough water to cover. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for one hour, or until the chops are tender. During the last 20 minutes of baking remove the cover so the dish browns nicely.

BROCCOLI IS ONE OF BEST AMONG WINTER VEGETABLES

If you don't serve broccoli at least once a week you have been passing up one of the best winter vegetables in the market. It is not quite as strongly flavored as cabbage or cauliflower and contains abundant iron. The woody covering of thicker stalks may be stripped and the center portion which is quite delicate retained and the leaves, heads and more tender stalks boiled and served with a hollandaise sauce. But this week we are voting for Broccoli au Gratin.

One bunch broccoli. One cup white sauce (well seasoned).

One teaspoon lemon juice. One teaspoon parsley (chopped). One teaspoon onion (chopped). Butter.

One-fourth cup grated cheese. One cup bread crumbs. Wash the broccoli and cut off the coarse part of the stalks. Let stand in cold water one hour. Drain, and cook in boiling, salted water until tender. Add the lemon juice, parsley and onion to the white sauce and simmer two or three minutes; beat in one-half cup of the broccoli. Place the well-drained broccoli in a buttered baking dish, cover with the sauce, sprinkle with one-fourth cup grated cheese and the bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees) until heated through and brown.

Potato chips, crackers and cereals often get limp and rubbery in damp weather. A few minutes in the oven will restore their original crispness.

Vary your Vitamins

By eating plenty of Washington WINESAP APPLES

Extra high in Vitamins A and B, and with a liberal supply of Vitamin C, these crisp, juicy apples abound in health-giving elements. Eat plenty of Washington apples, together with green vegetables, and get these essentials in an agreeable form. Government tables show these apples to be an economical source of energy calories—dental authorities credit them with helping preserve the teeth.

But whether you choose your food for health or because you enjoy it, Washington Winesap apples give you full value. Their glowing color delights the eye, their piquant flavor intrigues the palate, their tonic juices bring renewed zest.

And this year you can buy Winesaps from the famous orchards of the State of Washington at prices that appeal to the thrifty. Get them from your grocer or fruit dealer.

AND WASHINGTON DELICIOUS, TOO
Juicy, fragrant Delicious Apples from the State of Washington are also in season. The Delicious is the desert apple supreme. Many people think this is the finest eating apple. Because of their mild flavor and only slight tartness everyone can eat this variety. Try them for the children's lunch—serve them to your guests—eat them yourself, morning, noon or night. They're as "delicious" as the name implies.

APPLES AID IN EASY REDUCING
Dietitians and health specialists are finding that the ancient adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," can now be varied to mean that a diet of apples will most assuredly keep fat away.

A Perfectly Blended Food
To keep youthful lines and energy the regular eating of apples is particularly recommended. A Washington Winesap Apple is declared to be a balanced, perfectly blended mineral, tonic in its invigorating action upon the digestive system.

Science in confirming the apple's age-old reputation as a healthful food, finds one of the reasons in the abundance of important vitamins which it contains. It is particularly high in Vitamin B, which increases appetite, promotes digestion, stimulates nerves and brain and benefits nursing mothers, and in Vitamin C, which builds resistance to disease and helps serve as a regulating agency.

For a Nerve Tonic Try Apple and Celery Salad
Select Washington Winesap apples of uniform size, cut a thick slice from the stem end of each and scoop out the pulp with a potato-ball scoop. Cut the pulp into small, match-like pieces and mix with an equal amount of celery cut into small pieces. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing and fill apple shells, replace tops and arrange on lettuce leaves.

1200 ATTEND MEETING OF YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Session of State Groups at Statter; Contest for President.

Democrats from St. Louis and 80 counties gathered at Hotel Statler today for the third annual convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Missouri. Attendance of 1200 to 1500 Young Democrats and some not so young was anticipated, with early registration indicating it would be realized.

Principal interest centered in the contest for election of officers. Opposing candidates for president, each with a slate of associates, were Ray Roberts, a Farmington lawyer and former State Representative, and Roger Taylor of Licking, a clerk at the State Auditor's office at Jefferson City.

Roberts was supported by "administration" forces in the organization, leaders of which said there was resentment against an endorsement of Taylor by Jim Pendergast of Kansas City, nephew of Boss Tom Pendergast. While many members of the association of clubs were loyal to the Pendergast political machine, the rule of the clubs has been to refrain from factionalism. It has avoided entering primary contests, but pledged members to support party nominees for public office.

The election will be at the end of the closing session tomorrow afternoon.

The retiring president is George Freeman, a Kansas City lawyer, who has held the office for the three years of the clubs' existence. He was one of the organizers of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, which have 3000 members in 42 states. The Missouri clubs have 13000 paid-up members.

W. G. Tracy, lawyer, of Anderson, will be chairman of the Resolutions Committee, to which numerous questions concerning policies and conduct of the organization will be referred.

Gov. Park was here for an afternoon address to the convention, following a welcome by Mayor Dickmann, John D. Taylor, chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the State House of Representatives, and United States Senator Arthur W. Barkley of Kentucky, chairman of the United States Territorial Expansion Memorial Committee, which is to plan a river-front memorial here, will speak tomorrow afternoon.

The Young Democratic Club of St. Louis will present a play, "Clear All Wires," at Municipal Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Tomorrow night will entertain members of the convention at a dance at Hotel Statler.

3000 HEAD OF ELK KILLED

Hunting Season for Yellowstone Herd Closes.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., Feb. 22.—An estimated 3000 head of elk from the Northern Yellowstone Park herd of 13,000 were killed in the hunting season which closed last night.

The season had been lengthened to permit further reduction in the size of the herd, which had outgrown the range capacity. More than 200 head have been shipped carload to Idaho, Wyoming and Montana. These elk were killed by park officials.

OWNER OF TAVERN FINED $150

pleads Guilty of Selling Liquor Without a License.

Arnold R. Licklider, proprietor of the Tavern, 1826 South Broadway, was fined $150 by Police Judge Simpson yesterday when he pleaded guilty of selling liquor without a city license.

Defective Sgt. McGuire told the Court that Licklider had made efforts to secure a license but that one was not issued because his tavern did not meet the requirements of the ordinance. He said Licklider continued to operate the establishment until Dec. 30, when he was arrested.

TWO YEARS FOR FLIGHT
AFTER AUTO HITS BOY

Ex-Convict, Who Ran Down Delivery Lad Dec. 10, Pleads Guilty.

Clinton Wright, Negro ex-convict, who drove away after his automobile struck and injured Charles Woody, 15-year-old delivery boy, Dec. 10, pleaded guilty of leaving the scene of injury to a person and was sentenced by Circuit Judge Connor yesterday to two years in the penitentiary.

Wright was charged also as an habitual criminal, having served part of a 10-year term several years ago on a manslaughter charge, but the State waived the additional charge in accepting the plea. Woody was knocked from his bicycle while riding in the 4300 block of Page boulevard. Wright was arrested several blocks away by police who followed him from the scene.

George Crump, 17-year-old Negro, pleaded guilty of felonious wounding and larceny of an automobile and was sentenced to two years in Booneville Reformatory.

Last Nov. 24 he stole a car belonging to David Sherman, 6204 Cabanne avenue, University City, and drove it into a machine occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Dierker, 6552 Corbett avenue, University City, injuring them.

EX-WIFE OF W. H. VANDERBILT
SUES WRITER FOR DIVORCE

Charges Cruel Conduct and Physical Violence in Action Against Raoul Whitfield.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 22.—Alleging cruel and inhuman conduct, physical violence and violent and improper language, Emily Whitfield filed suit for divorce yesterday from Raoul Whitfield.

They were married July 19, 1933, in New York. There are no children, and there is no community property, the suit alleges, but the Dead Horse Ranch of 1000 acres in San Miguel County is brought into the suit. The ranch, the complaint says, is the wife's property but is in Whitfield's name and she wants it returned to her.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—Emily Whitfield was the first wife of William H. Vanderbilt. The marriage to Whitfield, San Francisco writer, was her third.

She was originally Emily O'Neill Davies of Pittsburgh. In November, 1923, when she was 20 and Vanderbilt was 22, they were married in New York. They had one child, Emily.

In 1928 she obtained a divorce in Newport. Mrs. Vanderbilt later married Sigourney Rayer, theatrical producer and member of a prominent Massachusetts family. Mr. and Mrs. Rayer separated in 1929 and were divorced.

COUNTY TAXPAYERS ADVISED TO INVESTIGATE ASSESSMENTS

Board of Equalization to Hear Protests Beginning March 4.

St. Louis County taxpayers were advised to inform themselves of the new property assessments made recently by Assessor Neaf and to protest against assessments if they consider them unfair, in a motion picture shown last night at a meeting of the League of County Municipalities.

Members of the league, consisting mostly of city officials, were requested in the motion to inform taxpayers in their respective localities of the new assessments. The county Board of Equalization will hear protests beginning March 4.

Killer Trained With Bloodhounds.

MOUNT AIRY, N. C., Feb. 22.—Officers with bloodhounds were in the mountains north of here today and said they were on the trail of Howard Delp, 24 years old, who escaped from jail at Galax, Va., last night, leaving the police chief, Posey Martin, slashed to death, and Frank Dodson, another officer, seriously wounded.

Feb. 22nd Once More.
A New War Weapon?
Two Sisters Jumped.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

WASHINGTON'S birthday comes once more, a dreary old-fashioned celebration for some New Americans, a comforting day for old-fashioned Americans who are to be reminded that this country once felt able to manage its own affairs without direction from Europe.

Washington proved that we could not do it with a population one-third the present population of New York State. Somebody may appear among today's 130,000,000 Americans convinced that what less than 4,000,000 Americans could do in 1776, more than 130,000,000 Americans can do in 1935.

While we stay off the gold basis, sound of it, telling the world, "Shake our dollar if you can." Europe's "gold bloc" nations are bothered.

The Bank of France has sold a great quantity of Italy's lire, knocking them down to a new low price. This country can afford to abandon gold, when others cannot, because it has so much real wealth back of its paper. Any kind of money that will buy anything in the United States is good money.

Men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love. Shakespeare, who wrote that, knew it did not apply to women. Men commit suicide when they lose money, women commit suicide when disappointed in love.

Where, among men, would you find a match for Jane and Elizabeth du Bois, sisters, 20 and 23 years old, daughters of the United States Consul General at Naples?

Their hearts were broken, when their two best friends, British divers, were killed in the crash of a Royal Air Force plane. They reserved all the eight passenger seats in a British airplane, persuaded the pilot to close the door and cover the windows between himself and his two passengers.

At 4000 feet up, the two sisters opened the door and jumped, hand in hand. Let us hope they have found their two pilots and found them worth while.

Men don't do that, they are content to tell some other lady how badly they feel, and accept tender consolation.

Richard has developed and England will try out a new "helicopter" airplane, alleged to fly 250 miles an hour. Invented by a young Finnish engineer, Viljo Louhi, this helicopter has no propeller wings, and can carry heavy loads important in war time. It can rise like a feather slowly on a lawn or putting green. Some American with capital, if such a thing remains, ought to investigate this airplane.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., ought to send Eddie Rickenbacker over to test it. Also, the United States Government ought to be interested, but the United States Government is busy spending the taxpayers' money, "sharing the wealth," "giving men a king," or a kingfish, or a bankrupt, that it has no time for improvements in the airplane which was invented here.

BYRNS' REMARK STARTS PARTY PATRONAGE RUSH
Speaker Says 10,000 Jobs Are Available in CCC; Bombardment of Director Begins.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—House Democrats were rushing to get ahead of one another today to recommend workers for 10,000 new jobs in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Information that that many jobs would be available was the biggest tangible gain they made at their first party caucus yesterday on the question of patronage.

Their special patronage committee, which twice called on President Roosevelt, reported the President had promised to give greater heed to House members' recommendations. That, however, did not satisfy the patronage seekers fully.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

WASHINGTON'S Birthday. I am writing this beside his tomb. The picture of a young nation slowly breaking its way through wilderness, facing terrific hardship and danger, and constantly with the heavier handicap of its own youth and ignorance, yet growing and developing, is a picture of a young nation stepping out of class comfort, class privilege, class security, and class leadership of ragged, hungry, desperate men rebelling against tyranny.

OUR FIRST FLAG. Not an extraordinarily brilliant man. Not perhaps a perfect man, judged by praiseworthy standards, but in all those qualities that really count, a MAN. A man who was willing to be hungry and cold, lonely, despised and hunted, that other men might be freer.

A Symbol. And then the third picture—the picture of that first small flag, so crudely made, yet carrying in its simple folds such mighty import. For that was no mere decoration. That first flag. There was a symbol of something actually done, of something actually shed, of something actually borne, of brotherly help actually given. Out of all that they made it.

THE STARS AND STRIPES. And now today that flag, grown larger, prouder, floats over this vast nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Rio Grande to the Gulf of Mexico. And we, the heirs of those who made it, how in reverence we look at that flag for which they fought.

HOW SACRED ARE THE STARS AND STRIPES TODAY? Are they sacred to rich men wallowing in wealth and power? To the lowly poor men who starve? To the man who is a slave to his own debts? To the man who is a slave to his own fears?

HOW SACRED ARE THE STARS AND STRIPES TODAY? They were sacred in Washington's time. They were sacred in Lincoln's time. They were sacred in the time of the great American flag—any nation's flag is sacred when, and ONLY WHEN, men make it sacred. It is sacred to the exact extent of the sacrifice of their honor, their courage, and their generosity and not for one moment longer; for not one whit of that honor or courage or generosity may be handed on.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

The Effort to Prevent Outward Appearances From Disclosing Gordon's Precarious Finances Is Hard on Jerry.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE. HOW was it Jerry knew, in that moment, that if Muzz placed her money with Gordon, it was lost? Jerry understood nothing of business, she had had unlimited faith in Gordon, she wanted to believe in him still. Yet she knew. She had never dreamed that there was such misery and shame as overwhelmed her when she looked at her serene, handsome mother, so confident in her adoration of her tall son-in-law. "Why yes, dear, I'll ask him," Jerry managed to say. "But Muzz, I thought your money was so well invested."

BEGIN HERE TODAY. What manner of man is GORDON RICHARDS? Then, Jerry, pretty Jerry, who had been so successful and so well liked, she did not know. Now she knew. She had seen him in the past, but she had never seen him in the present. She had seen him in the past, but she had never seen him in the present. She had seen him in the past, but she had never seen him in the present.

AN OLD-FASHIONED SHOPPING BAT, and she adored it above all other things. It should be a choice lovely clothes again without regard to cost, even for some one else. Although the earth in its courses had precipitated a summer when the sun was warm, Jerry forgot all discomforts and worries in a keen hunt for a new hat. She was a short blonde, with a perfect complexion and a dumpy figure. Any color would do but the lines must be as artful as Satan himself.

While the saleswoman brought dresses out to show her, Jerry went through the cases, studying the dresses, picking three or four. They were the ones Julie would go to Mallets for hats. Jerry had seen her for-ages. The cool, dark depth of the color, the thing establishment where she felt she was a blow. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat.

One catastrophe after another struck. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat. The first hat she saw was a hat.

One watched the papers for hard gains. One bought canned goods very cheaply at a certain market. Jerry became a bargain hunter. Pencil in hand, she went over the advertisements, feverishly marking items, then sailing forth to run them down. This sort of buying required very little of Jerry. And such a bargain. Came a day when Jerry instead of dropping in her lap the usual roll of bills, gave her a check. That was quite all right, Jerry cashed it at the leading department store, where she had spent countless thousands, and went busy way among the bargain counters.

Because the check had been made out to her, it was Jerry whom the credit department called. She said that it had come back marked insufficient funds. Jerry could hardly replace the check. She felt very small and weak animal must walk about it. After she had had a moment to think, she decided it need not mean more money, yet realization that there was not enough in the bank to cover that check, either, as they had figured money so short a time ago, seemed like the foretelling of a doom.

What does one do when there is no money any more? All of Jerry's life there had been plenty and for a time there had been so much that she had no use to both about such things. Barbara Hilton ran in just then. Harper close behind her. Jerry and the other girls were looking for a sign from her. "You're an angel, Aldie, but just ing hats right now at a nickel!" Miss Alden tried to sound surprised. She did feel dreadfully sorry and wanted to say so, but with her best customer upon the thing I can do—"she did manage to gasp.

"Just don't say anything, will you?" With this little inspired seller of hats, Jerry felt safe as she felt safe with none of her own friends, not even Barbara. Gordon's financial mistakes were coming too close home to all of her own crowd for her friendly view of them. Miss Alden's action and her genuine concern touched and comforted Jerry a great deal, served to counteract some of the secret bitterness she had been feeling. Summer was passing. It appeared that Susan was 9 months old. Gordon, as infatuated as ever, had made a small celebration of each birthday and Jerry was waiting for him to come home. No matter how heavy his burdens or how worried he was and although he never spoke of it, Jerry heavily burdened he never forgot himself or with Susan. Every night he entered the house with an air of confidence and assurance. Jerry wondered what it cost him to assume it but could not ask, because he shut her so resolutely from any participation in his business concerns. That night was to be the exception. Jerry heard his steps across the front porch, heard him fumble at the screen, enter the house. At the door he stopped. Jerry got up and went toward him. He turned back at her step, and his face was dreadful. (Continued Tomorrow.)

Children Need A Very Definite Idea of Time

By Mrs. Brooke P. Church

SENSE of time is a matter of experience, and only after years of practice does a man learn to estimate time correctly. To a little child time passes slowly, and an hour often seems a day. If it looks ahead it must accept the adult view given to time. "Mother says we'll go very soon." Soon may mean next week or even next year. To a child time is a long, long time. To a child time is a long, long time. To a child time is a long, long time.

Promises in which the time element is involved should be made very definite and the child given time before the event. With very little children it is better not to lay plans or make promises for more than a day ahead worn out, and the child's attention waiting. It is a wise plan to seem to seize opportunity as it comes, and do things as far as the child can see, on the spur of the moment. In this way nervous wear and tear on both mother and child will be lessened, and the child will have less chance of disappointment.

Puddle Muddle Votes on Having The Lamb Remain

By Mary Graham Bonner

"YOU don't have to be a dog in order to be a Puddle Mudder," said Mrs. Quacko Duck. "If you're a duck you can be a Puddle Mudder." "But I'm not a duck," cried the lamb. "You don't have to be a duck in order to be a Puddle Mudder," said Mrs. Quacko Duck. "We'll vote on it," said Mrs. Quacko Duck. "We'll vote on it," said Mrs. Quacko Duck. "We'll vote on it," said Mrs. Quacko Duck.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON
STRANGE WAY OF EARNING A LIVING—There are few people in the world who employ very strange and bizarre means of earning a living, and Senor Lazaro, the strange native of Baracoa, Cuba, is one of them. Some performers chew up razor blades and eat them, others bite off morsels of light globes or water glasses and swallow them mouthfully, but Senor Lazaro mystifies his audience by putting large burning needles in his eye and taking them out of his mouth. There is no deception whatever in Lazaro's accomplishment, and he performs daily for his audience in Havana.

THE GIANT CIGAR—Work on the largest cigar ever made was completed by a Tampa, Fla., cigar-maker in December after months of tedious labor putting together more than 25 pounds of filler and 250 wrapper leaves all especially secured for this special cigar. The finished product measures 92 1/2 inches in length and has a circumference of 12 inches. The giant smoke will be on exhibition in Tampa the latter part of February during the cigar industry's Golden Jubilee celebration commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the cigar industry in Tampa.

TOMORROW: "AN ANIMAL WITH 50 STOMACHS"

Dark Road

By Don Allen

LONG hours of restless wakefulness had painted deep shadows under the redrimmed eyes of the thin, wasted man who sat at the window, legs wrapped in a faded quilt, his nose pressed against the blackened screen as he stared unseeing into the still darkness of the oppressive night.

The dingy lane seemed to be filled with vague shapes which melted away only to reappear again and again. On the corner where the lane straggled away from the road a single light hung from a pole, shedding its billous glow over the dumping ground to the east.

It was late; only an occasional car flashed by with tires singing on the sticky tar.

The man sat quite motionless save for nervous fingers which fumbled with a scrap of paper he held in his lap. When he coughed, the racking cough that shook his narrow frame as he coughed, he could feel the outlines of the object which pressed his side as he sat there; it was his old service pistol.

Days long since torn from calendars passed in procession through his mind; first war days, bringing the sound of drums, the sight of olive drab, and the sickly scent of the foul gas which had for so long a time kept him helpless in his chair.

Followed quickly the sweetly bitter memories of first days with Nell, days unblemished by the hacking cough and the sudden stabs of pain which had touched him soon thereafter.

Life, such of it as was left to him, came from Nell. It came from the nickels and dimes and occasional quarters, the pitiful small coins people left behind them after they had eaten the food Nell brought them from the noisy kitchen of the Acme luncheon.

Nell had never seemed to mind the burden that he was upon her and he had been so blind that he never would have suspected that he had not looked into her purse the night before.

What had prompted him to open Nell's shabby bag he could not say. He had snapped it open and found without purpose to find that scrap of paper which had swept sleep from his tired eyes for this age-long night and day.

"Dear Nell," he had read on that slip of paper. "Sorry I couldn't make it today. See you tomorrow night. Everything is set. Does Jim suspect?"

He bit his lips hard as he thought of those torturing words. Nell had fooled him. It was like losing faith in God to lose his faith in her.

Now he understood the excitement she had shown as she hurried

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHORS NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—Dr. Willystine Goodsell, in her book, "History of Marriage and the Family," shows that 43 per cent of all divorces in the United States are secured during the first five years. Since the average American marriage endures about 20 years this means that nearly half of them are secured during the first quarter of the average married life.

2.—The little job. Dr. A. T. Poffenberger, psychologist, had a group try their strength on a griping machine. He told them they were to squeeze it as hard as they could. They averaged 31 pounds each. He then told them to squeeze it 15 times and urged them to exert all their strength each time. Yet their first squeeze averaged only 24 pounds.

3.—James Bryant Conant, the President of Harvard, said, "You are just a generation younger than I am. You will have many serious problems but you have great advantages. My generation was handicapped (1) by living its youth in an area of security—then came the war, then the "boom" and then the depression. The generation older than mine lived too long in a period of apparent tranquility. You will have known that the world is difficult and uncertain many years before you enter the struggle." I share Dr. Conant's view and shall comment again soon upon his excellent address.

He trembling fingers explored the purse and found something more—two long strips of green paper—two tickets to Arizona.

It's an Old World Custom

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEVER again will gold jingle in American pockets, and misers will have to learn a new habit.

We do not know what the dentist will put in our mouths. The only thing we are certain of is his finger.

From now on bullion will be used as a reserve. When France, England or Germany wants a loan, the best they will get is a postcard picture of the Treasury Building.

After today when you speak of bullion you mean nothing but beef broth.

We are simply following the examples of foreign nations, whose motto is: Keep what you have, borrow what you can reach and throw snowballs at the rest.
